SPEEDY O. K. EXPECTED ON PAY-GO TAX

Compromise Adopted By Joint Committee Puts 44 Million Payers on Current Basis.

FIGHTERS GET BREAK

Civilians Who Owe $50 Given Full Forgiveness, Others Get 75 Per Cent.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—House leaders decided today to bring up the compromise 75 per cent forgiveness pay-as-you-go income tax plan for house action next Tuesday.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — House and senate conferees who finally struggled to a compromise on pay-as-you-go income tax collection raced against the legislative clock today to put it into effect by July 1, only five weeks away.

Prospects look good for speedy senate and house approval, leaders among the conference group declared.

Designed to put the nation's 44,000,000 taxpayers on a current basis without the compulsion of paying two year's taxes in one, here is what the bill would do.

CANCEL a whole year's income tax liability for persons owing the government $50 tax or less.

CANCEL 75 per cent of a year's liability for all others, with the remainder to be paid half in 1944 and half in 1945.

IMPOSE a 20 per cent withholding levy against the taxable portion of wages and salaries, to be applied against income and victory tax liabilities.

REQUIRE quarterly payments of the current year's tax by persons with income from sources other than wages or salaries, and from persons in upper salary brackets.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the house ways and means committee, who headed the house conference delegation, said he hoped the bill would be accepted by both houses this week and approved by the president.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), ranking Republican member of the finance committee, told a reporter he did not think there would be any serious controversy about the measure now that the conferees have ended a five-day deadlock.

"It is perfectly obvious that it is the best compromise available," he said, "and it is equally obvious that there must be a bill passed."

Whether the legislation would eliminate any necessity for higher income tax rates this year remained to be determined. President Roosevelt has asked for an

SPUDS CHEAPER

If You Can Get 'Em, OPA Says They Should Cost Less.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The OPA juggled prices on potatoes today, favoring the shopper slightly and granting farmers a higher sum in hopes of overcoming the scarcity that has lifted the lowly spud almost to the category of a rare delicacy in many communities.

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown decree a seven per cent cut in consumer prices and a 30 cents per hundred pound increase to farmers. Thus potatoes that sold for six cents a pound in Washington now will be 5¼ cents. To accomplish this, Brown ordered mark-ups by wholesalers held to 60 cents per hundred pounds.

Onion prices were modified, too, wholesalers being held to a single mark-up of 40 cents per 50 pounds. The savings, yet to be calculated, are to be passed on to the consumer.

REMEMBER?

Britisher, 61, Told He Can't Recall War-Scarce Bananas.

LONDON —(U.P.)— During debate in commons today on the banana situation in Jamaica, Laborite John J. Dawson asked: "What is a banana anyway?"

"You are too young to remember," Capt. Oliver Stanley, colonial secretary, replied to the 61-year-old member.

APPEALS FOR WORKERS

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Predicting a serious farm labor shortage for Hamilton county within 30 days, County Agricultural Agent Carl Bibbee today appealed for immediate enlistment of part-time workers.

DEATH CLAIMS EDSEL FORD, 49

Chief Executive of Far-Flung Auto Empire Succumbs at Detroit Home.

DETROIT — (AP) — Edsel Ford, the only son of Henry Ford, founder of the vast Ford industrial empire, died today at 1:30 a. m. at his home at Grosse Pointe Shores, a Detroit suburb. He was 49 years old.

The younger Ford, who was chief executive of the Ford company for 24 years, died from a condition developing from a former stomach malady for which an operation was performed 16 months ago. Undulant fever also was present.

Edsel became seriously ill 10 days ago, although he had not been feeling well since he returned from a trip to Florida about a month ago. Although there was an improvement in his condition during the week-end, he took a turn for the worse last night.

His four children were here at the time of his death. The three sons, Henry, Benson and William, all of whom are in the armed services, had been granted leaves so that they could return to the family estate. The daughter, Josephine, lives here.

Edsel, at the time of his death, was in the midst of one of his company's greatest efforts, an all-out production of war materials to help this country and its Allies in the war.

His father, now 79, had done that before him, when he was

'Good Response' Follows Mowing Plea at Cemetery

Although response to his appeal to lot owners at the Mansfield cemetery to mow their own burial lots before Memorial day was described as "highly satisfactory," Charles Denman, cemetery superintendent, said today that a large part of the cemetery will not be mowed by Sunday because of the labor shortage.

Denman said "at least 98 per cent of the lot owners realize what we are up against and were very reasonable about it," but others complained because the cemetery is not as well cared for as in recent years.

He said he had tried hiring

DAYTON, TOO

It's Last Big Ohio City to Adopt Fast Time.

DAYTON —(AP)— City commissioners unanimously adopted today an emergency ordinance placing Dayton on Eastern War time during the summer months. The measure goes into effect Sunday.

Dayton completes the list of major municipalities in the state on "fast time" despite a state statute of Feb. 21 which officially places Ohio on Central War time.

BEGINS LIFE TERM

JACKSON—(U.P.)—Russell Wills, 22, today began a life imprisonment term for the murder of George Borland, 71-year-old farmer. His conviction on first degree charges, with a recommendation for mercy, makes parole impossible.

5,000 IDLE AT TOLEDO

Soft Coal Dispute Appears Headed For Accord as WLB Grants Concessions.

BULLETIN

DETROIT — (INS) — War production at the Packard Motor Car company was threatened today when an estimated 2,000 UAW-CIO employes walked out in protest against a company-union agreement delaying the upgrading of certain workers.

(By Associated Press)

A walkout of 50,000 Akron rubber workers and a strike vote of transportation workers in war-booming Baltimore complicated the nation's production picture today but prospects of peace in the coal fields provided an optimistic tone to the overall labor situation.

Industrial sources estimated the work stoppage to date has caused a $14,000,000 to $15,000,000 loss in war materials.

The stoppage of work in the giant Akron rubber factories, turning out vital war equipment, was a mass protest against refusal of the War Labor Board to grant a

Raise For Railmen

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An emergency board of the national railway labor panel recommended today a general increase of 8 cents an hour for more than a million of the nation's railroad employes.

The 15 so-called non-operating unions involved had asked an increase of 20 cents an hour with a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour, and the union shop. The board declined to recommend these proposals.

DESTROY 'EM!

Unused Ration Coupons Aid Black Market, OPA Says.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The Office of Price administration urged housewives today to destroy unused red and blue ration stamps which have expired and to view with suspicion any attempts to solicit their surrender.

"Every ration stamp that is handed to a storekeeper without receiving the legal amount of rationed food in exchange is a potential contribution to the black market," OPA said. "An expired stamp is 'dead' to the housewife but very much 'alive' in trade channels and the object of considerable interest in the black market."

Mrs. Jack Dempsey In Court

Mrs. Dempsey filed countersuit for divorce. Both seek custody of their two children, Joan, 8, and Barbara, 6. Dempsey charged his wife with intimacies and named the two men as correspondents.

Second Mansfield Army-Navy 'E' Awarded to Tappan Stove

The Tappan Stove company today became the second Mansfield firm to qualify for the Army-Navy "E" award for excellence in production of materials in the second World war, it was announced in Washington by army and navy officials.

Announcement of the award to the Mansfield firm and two others in Ohio was made by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Undersecretary of the Navy James Forrestal the Associated Press reported.

Tappan officials said they had not been notified officially of the award but had heard "rumors for two or three days that the company was in line for the honor. No date has been set for the presentation ceremonies.

First Mansfield war industry to win the "E" flag was the Hughes-Keenan company, manufacturers of cranes, which was honored May 7 during ceremonies at the plant.

The army-navy announcement today said the Tappan company, on 100 per cent war production since last September, would receive the "E" award "in recognition of outstanding performance in war work."

One of Mansfield's important makers of government materials during the first World war, the Tappan company has been handling war contracts since the summer of 1941 and in September, 1942, made its last gas range for civilian use. The firm is one of the nation's leading peace-time stove manufacturers.

Major Alan P. Tappan, vice president of the company, is on overseas duty with the army air forces. He also served in the army during the first World war.

COSTS ONE LIFE

Ohio Blackout Brings Death To Girl Cyclist.

(By Associated Press)

One person was killed and another injured seriously last night in a 35-minute test blackout that covered ten counties in industrial northern Ohio.

Dead was Esther Yochman, 15, of Diamond. Her 14-year-old companion, Pauline Peterchak, also of Diamond, was hurt critically when their bicycles collided with an air raid warden's automobile near Salem, state highway patrolmen reported.

War plants in Youngstown, Niles, Struthers, Lowellville, Girard and Campbell were required to black out completely. Greater Cleveland factories were permitted to keep inside lights burning, but a large number voluntarily observed the complete blackout.

Lieut. Col. Donald J. Lynn of the Ohio State Guard, official observer, said only a few plants lacked proper preparations.

ASHLAND JAIL ESCAPER GIVES UP TO POLICE

'Dangerous' Fugitive Who Fled After Car Pulled Out Cell Window Surrenders.

PLAN QUESTIONING

Cleveland Police Surround Home While Hunted Man Appears at Station.

Edward Lewarski, 25, of Cleveland, who escaped from the Ashland county jail early Sunday after a chain attached to an automobile was used to jerk the window from his cell, surrendered to Cleveland police today.

Lewarski walked into the central police station this morning as detectives searched his home and warned his mother, Stella, he was "dangerous and would be shot on sight."

The fugitive, under sentence to the Ohio state reformatory for automobile theft, stated he broke out of the Ashland jail and wanted to "give up."

Cleveland officers said they had not yet questioned him but were waiting for the arrival there o. Ashland County Sheriff Dale Hammond and Deputy M. F. Rickenbrod who were en route to return him to Ashland.

Meanwhile, two other Clevelanders, associates of Lewarski were held in Ashland county jail as possible accomplices in the escape. They were taken into custody by Cleveland officers and turned over to Ashland authorities earlier this week. Neither has admitted guilt, the sheriff's department reported.

Lewarski's jail breaking began March 26 when he walked away from the Warrensville workhouse where he was serving a six months' term for assault and battery.

He was arrested in Ashland May 4 by the state highway patrol after a wild chase through Medina and Ashland counties. He was convicted of auto theft and sentenced to one to 20 years in the reformatory, but escaped before he was transferred.

City's Merchants To Stage Two-Day Sales Promotion

Retail merchants are busily engaged in preparing for the annual Mansfield Days spring promotion which will be held Friday and Saturday. Identifying flags and window posters will be displayed both days to acquaint shoppers with members of the Retail Merchants' association.

Merchants are featuring the round-up of early spring merchandise and announcing the new summer lines. Also to be an attraction are the "hard-to-get" items.

As has been the custom for several years there will be free bus rides downtown Friday morning from 9 to 11:15 to encourage early morning shopping. A special edition of The News-Journal tomorrow will give shopers a pre-vue to the sales.

CHINESE ROLLING INVADERS BACK

Repulse Drives Toward Rice Bowl and Chungking.

CHUNGKING —(AP)— Chinese troops have rolled back one column of a Japanese army driving toward China's rice bowl west of Lake Tungting and slowed up a three-way drive which may be aimed at China's provisional capital at Chungking, the Chinese Central News agency said today.

Enemy forces south of Yuyangkwan, 35 miles south and west of Ichang, were "badly beaten and returned in a northerly direction," the agency said.

The agency reported heavy fighting southwest of Yuyangkwan, "where the enemy also suffered a heavy beating."

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Under-Secretary of War, Robert P. ## 'City-Busters' Raid Aimed at Arms Center

500 Bombers Deliver Mammoth Blow t Ruhr Iron and Steel Town; 27 of Attackers Lost; British Planes Ambush Luftwaffe Flight.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—An armada of RAF heavy bomber probably as strong as the force which unloaded mo than 2,000 tons of explosives on Dortmund Sunda night, blasted Duesseldorf last night in a continuin offensive apparently aimed at obliterating Ge many's arms centers one by one.

Observers estimated that perhaps 500 bombers at least three-quarters of them giant four-motore craft capable of carrying a tremendous weight of high e plosives—participated in the assault.

Twenty-seven bombers were lost in the attack, said th announcement, which reported the assault was carried ou "in very great strength." Several other targets in Ge many also were reported bombed, though Duesseldorf, in th heart of the battered Ruhr, was the main objective.

It was the second great attack on Germany in three nights, ar gave force to the threat emanating from the Churchill-Roosevelt co ferences that Adolf Hitler's war power was to be destroyed at i roots.

Duesseldorf is situated on the Rhine 24 miles northwest of Cologne and 50 miles southwest of Dortmund, which was the target of Sunday's record-smashing raid. It is Germany's third largest inland port and has iron and steel works comparable to the great Krupp organization.

A previous raid on Duesseldorf last Dec. 2 was said to have left 190,000 homeless.

The city had a pre-war population of 429,000. Last month Sir Archibald Sinclair, British air minister, told the house of commons that 380 acres of the city had been laid in ruins.

Mitchell medium bombers were out during daylight yesterday with an escort of Spitfires and again battered the oft-bombed Nazi airfield at Abbeville behind the French coast. Fighter squadrons, in supporting sweeps, strafed other objectives in northern France. Two bombers and two fighters were reported lost.

Two stabs at the British coast cost the enemy eight aircraft during the day.

Four were brought down as the Germans struck at two southea coast towns in mid-afternoon wi a force of some 25 planes, th largest concentration of enem daylight raiders in some time.

The Nazi attackers dropped number of bombs and then turn their guns on buildings in th towns. In one town, several hom were flattened, burying some pe sons and killing at least 12.

A flight of Focke-Wulf 190' heading toward a southeas town at dusk last night, wa ambushed by lurking RAF Spit fires. Four of the enemy plane were sent spinning into the se and others were believed to have been damaged.

The offensive continued toda and shortly after noon a stron force of Allied planes, possibly in cluding bombers, sped across th channel toward Calais to resum the battering of the Axis-held cor tinent.

The communique of the Ger man high command today said th raid caused "losses among th population as well as damage t buildings." Twenty-four Britis

BID: Churchill Invites Italy To Oust Duce, Get Out of War

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The White House disclosed today that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are preparing a brief joint statement on their war councils.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Italians got an informal invitation from Prime Minister Churchill today to disown their leaders and get out of the war, while Russia received an indirect bid for eventual co-operation in destroying Japanese might.

So far as another fighting front in Europe is concerned, the prime minister appeared to project action into a somewhat indefinite future, for he said at a press conference yesterday that no steps had been taken to select an Allied commander for such a stupendous project.

But Italians, he said, would be very well advised to throw themselves on the justice of those whom they so grievously have offended. It is a matter for them to settle among themselves, Churchill asserted, and all we can do is apply physical stimuli.

The conference yielded no clue as to when his war talks with President Roosevelt would result in adding new land and sea offensives to the stimuli of continued aerial poundings.

Pointing to the manner in which Russia had been holding back the weight of 218 enemy divisions, the prime minister said he certainly had not felt that he should request his government to ask more of the Soviet union. Then he added:

Their strength may grow as time goes on and they must know that Japan has watched them with a purely opportunist eye.

Britain's war leader was speaking in answer to a question whether he thought it would be to Russia's self-interest to fight Japan after the conflict in Europe is won.

The prime minister put in a

PRESSURE: Japs Admit U. S. Attacks Continuously on Attu

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—United States troops have wiped out the Japanese position in Chichagof valley, one of three major areas held by the enemy on Attu island, the navy announced today, and were reported following up with a drive against a second main position around Chichagof harbor.

(By United Press)

The Japanese today admitted continuous American attacks to dislodge remnants of their garrison from Attu island but said U. S. troops were suffering heavy losses and claimed that their blows against U. S. shipping and submarines had met success.

A Tokyo communique said 17 submarines—presumably American had been sunk in the south Pacific in recent weeks and that Japanese U-boats and other navy units had sunk 13 cargo and transport ships. None of these claims was confirmed elsewhere.

The Attu report coincided with a broadcast by Vichy radio that a naval battle is going on north of the outpost on the western end of the Aleutian islands. U. S. troops had failed to dislodge Japanese from their Attu positions, a Domei (Japanese) news agency correspondent on the island said.

Air activity in the southwest Pacific was stalled by stormy weather while in China, resistance stiffened to a Japanese drive across western Hupeh Province.

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—(INS)—Two years and four months after Dallas M. Campbell, of Elizabeth, became Pvt. Dallas M. Coming to Fort Bragg, Campbell went through his training and remained, although he planned at that time only a year of service and then a wedding. But Hirohito changed his plans and the former sergeant married Feb. 24, 1942.

ITALIAN ARMY NO BARGAIN, SAYS COOK WITH U. S. FORCES

(By International News Service)

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass.—A soldier at Camp Edwards was with the Italian army in Ethiopia and didn't like it.

Sgt. Technician Luigino Rossi, Thompsonville, Conn., a cook for the 2nd Replacement Depot, left the United States for Italy when his mother died in 1921. He was only eight years old at the time.

The Italian army pressed him into service when he became 21 regardless of his contention that he was an American citizen by birth.

For four and one-half years he served in the military system of Il Duce and hated every minute of it. He did not like the army and claims that the Italian soldiers don't either because of the strict discipline of Mussolini's troops.

He was among the troops which re-inforced the Ethiopian campaign but did not see action because of its brevity.

At one time Sgt. Rossi was detailed, ironically enough, with a detachment which acted as a military guard for Il Duce during a parade.

Just 17 years after he had left his birthplace in Thompsonville, he saw the Statue of Liberty again. Sgt. Rossi reports that he viewed the symbol of American freedom with tears of joy in his eyes.

Sgt. Rossi was not in the United States long before he was wearing a uniform again. When the draft came he enlisted.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

STOCKHOLM—(By Wireless)—Probably no monarch or chief of state anywhere plays his part quite as King Gustav. He is far from a figure-head, as he demostrated in one war crisis here. Instead of age reducing him to a mere name, I have the word of an opposition firebrand that the king's 85 years are a mighty force in Sweden.

Clapper

His very age gives him a patriarchial power which he does not hesitate to use in both large and small things occasionally. Indeed, under Swedish law the king is the principal representative of the people's will, in which fact lies his responsibility and his right to interfere whenever the seriousness of the situation calls for such action on his part.

Yesterday I saw him play tennis on a public court. Several of us had been invited to be presented. The king came out of the tennis dressing room, wearing long flannels, a long white polo coat and white hat, and carrying a racket. He stopped and chatted with us, apologized for trying to play tennis at his age. But, he said, he liked the game so why not play? It is remarkable that any person of 85 could be active on his feet through such a game, much less handle a racket with the quick co-ordination required.

We visitors regarded it as phenomenal, but there was no excitement around the court, which was open to all on payment of a small fee. Several persons were playing on other courts, and perhaps more than a hundred persons scattered around the clubhouse veranda, talking among themselves. Only a dozen or so bothered to sit in the gallery to watch him play, although this was the first time the king had played outdoors since his serious illness some months ago.

Not even Per Albin Hansson, prime minister for a decade and boss of the social democratic party, feels strong enough to oppose the king on a showdown—as when the Germans demanded permission to send a division through Sweden to help the Finns. The social democrats were against allowing the German division to go through. They considered this a violation of neutrality, and also they were against the Nazis anyway. However, the king steered his country through without becoming involved in the war. It was a probability that, if permission had been refused, the Germans would have forcibly entered Sweden. The king took a strong position for letting the division go through, but he was emphatic that no more could be permitted again.

There has been much discussion about the dramatic conference between the king and the prime minister. The king took responsibility for the action. The fact that it helped to prevent the Russians from over-running Finland made the move popular with those in Sweden who strongly fear Russia. This incident demonstrated the political power of the king, although it is not exercised frequently.

The social democratic party were in the majority, but the conservatives joined in the wartime coalition. The growing issue now is over whether to continue the coalition after the war or to return to party government. Hansson, who has been in power 10 years, wants to continue the coalition. It makes his job simpler, his position more secure. However, some active members of his party want a return to party government, feeling that the present static condition is a bad thing to continue indefinitely. They accept it now only as a necessary evil.

One effect of it is to drive the discontented into the communist ranks for an outlet. One armament manufacturer told me that his plant, with four thousand employes, has 500 enrolled party members and a thousand others who are sympathetic and attend communist meetings. The communist party is small in Sweden, but is growing as a protest against the static, cozy government coalition.

That is another reason why some of the younger social democrats want to get back to normal party government, with healthy opposition. They figure that conservative opposition would be a good thing for the social democratic majority, which would then rally its forces into more active life.

MURDER CLUE REPORTED IN 'TRAIN DEATH'

Lack of Blood on Tracks Hints Teacher Killed Elsewhere, Coroner Believes.

(By International News Service)

WAUSEON—A widespread investigation was launched today into the death of Miss Bess Schmidt, Los Angeles school teacher whose body was found on main line tracks of the New York Central railroad with indications she had met death elsewhere.

Coroner H. M. Warner said that although at least one train had run over the body, mutilating it almost beyond recognition, lack of blood at the place where it was found indicated the 30-year-old woman met death elsewhere.

The coroner pointed out that if the teacher had been struck by a train, the tracks would be stained with blood. All available evidence, he said, "points to the fact that the woman met death at a place other than the railroad tracks."

Capt. Ed James, of the railroad's police department, said he believed the victim's body was taken to the spot, and dumped on the tracks, since no blood or luggage was found there. He said he suspected robbery as the motive since Miss Schmidt was known to have $210 in her purse, which is missing in addition to her luggage.

Dr. Burt Schmier, of Detroit, who said he was a near-relative of the victim, reported that Miss Schmidt left Detroit Sunday for Indiana by bus but that she had become ill en route and had stopped at Toledo. By the time she had recovered, no bus transportation was available, so she took a taxicab to go to the train station. That was the last anyone who knew her saw her alive.

Detroit relatives said Miss Schmidt was en route to Camp Atterbury, Ind., to visit a soldier friend, Ben Bernstine, said to be leader of an army band there.

Coroner Warner said he would conduct tests to determine how the woman met death but that, because of the body's mutilation, the process might require two weeks.

A check of trains arriving at Chicago revealed neither the victim's purse nor luggage, further strengthening the theory that Miss Schmidt was not killed where the body was found.

RUSSIA GETS BIGGEST SHARE OF LEND-LEASE

FDR Reveals Soviets Given More Fighting Equipment Than Any Other Nation.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, accounting for $11,102,472,000 in lend-lease aid in a little more than two years, disclosed today that more actual fighting equipment had been sent to Russia than any other country.

Through March 31, the Soviet union received $1,041,000,000 in planes, tanks, motor vehicles, ammunition, ordnance and water craft to help check the Nazi hordes, Mr. Roosevelt said in a letter to congress.

"Today, we are out-building the aggressors in every category of modern arms," he asserted, "and we are delivering them in the amounts necessary to build up the striking power for offensives that will end only in Berlin and Tokyo."

Some of the lend-lease assistance has been in the form of goods and services made available in this country, such as training planes and the repair of ships. So the export total from the time lend-lease operations began on March 11, 1941, through last March 31 is only $7,105,000,000. That is exclusive of $700,000,000 in planes and ships delivered by air or sea.

The united kingdom got $3,116,000,000 worth of the exports and Russia $1,822,000,000. But in actual fighting gear, Russia's $1,041,000,000 overshadowed Britain's $881,000,000.

"New land routes are being developed to increase lend-lease shipments into China," the report to congress asserted, "and the reopening of the Burma road is among the strategic objectives of our forces."

The chief executive's letter stressed the victory in North Africa and said lend-lease operations there had demonstrated how a freed people can aid in the defeat of the Axis. Their support, it said, "will reflect itself in active cooperation at the proper time by millions still to be liberated."

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

LOS ANGELES—President Roosevelt's unwillingness to sign a tax bill embodying the Ruml plan puts a small minority of Americans in a very inferior position. They are inferior to the rest of the American people, and inferior to the peoples of foreign nations who have received gifts of billions of dollars out of the United States treasury with no thought or pretense that the debts will ever be paid.

Pegler

This group is composed of executives, professional men, whose incomes are derived from fees, artists and a few others of exceptional earning ability unconnected with the war. Most of them have reached and many of them have passed the peak of their earning power, and, unlike Mr. Roosevelt and Henry Morgenthau, have no backlog of inherited wealth from which to pay on two years' incomes in one, the whole amounting in some cases to more than 100 per cent of their earnings for 1943. They have been paying last year's income taxes out of this year's earnings from the beginning because congress planned it so in 1913.

The president and Mr. Morgenthau, with vast inherited wealth, can dig into their capital and make themselves current, as the phrase goes, without serious inconveniences, whereas men and women who started with nothing but unusual ability and diligence may be wiped out as an economic class this year. Thus, the New Deal's tax plan is not a tax to sock the rich, who can meet it and still survive, but a plan to punish a group which happens to embrace most of the party's most annoying opponents and critics.

The administration's willingness to abandon entirely the debt owed by vast numbers of earners in the lower brackets is not only a political appeal for the gratitude of this economic group, but practical recognition of the fact that they aren't used to the income tax. Many don't yet believe that it applies to them, haven't got the money to pay it and can't be compelled to pay. There are so many of such tax debtors that it is a practical impossibility to run them all down, and indict them and send them to prison or get judgment against them and sell out their property. This process would cost more than it would yield and, more important, would be unwise politics.

Those, however, who have been paying large income taxes in arrears, regularly, for years, do have investments or other property which could be converted, although, at a great loss of value, and they cannot escape. They are not rich like Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Morgenthau, but they look rich over the years, they have lived well in proportion to their earnings, paying last year's taxes faithfully out of current earnings and saving a portion year by year against old age and the end of their high earning powers.

The objection that tax forgiveness would be economic heresy is not applied to the new class of tax debtors, in the lower brackets, and is therefore inconsistent and, of course, insincere and strictly political. If it were based on principle, no person would be forgiven for any portion of this arrears as a means of bringing him up to date, but the political plan of the party is not intended to offer or discomfort those who might thus be put in a grateful mood. And few of the upper-bracket debtors would be so overwhelmed with gratitude as to vote for a fourth term in any case.

Meanwhile, although the treasury needs the money, Mr. Roosevelt has made it possible for his political following in the union movement to siphon off hundreds of millions of dollars of the whole people's money into the private, mysterious pools of union finance. Vast amounts of this money have been stolen by thieves, who stationed themselves astride the roads leading to projects and plants built for the war, and shook down hundreds of thousands of workers for a portion of their pay, derived from the public funds.

In many cases these extortions would have been sufficient to pay the victim's income taxes which it is now proposed to forgive because they haven't got the money, but the union racket has had a lien on such earnings, prior even to the federal income tax.

The earning class in the high brackets, as distinguished from the hereditary rich, come after the Russians, the British, the Chinese and miscellaneous others in the consideration of their own country's government. They must pay, though it breaks them to do so at a time of life when they cannot hope to recoup. The foreigner needn't worry. He has no intention to pay and he won't be asked to pay and there is no thought of selling him out at auction to satisfy his debt.

It is significant in this connection that Randolph Paul, the treasury's counsel, when he wished to express his objections to the Ruml plan selected for his medium the official publication of the lawyers' guild, whose first president, Judge Ferdinand Pecora, resigned his membership on the ground that it was dominated by communist lawyers.

DOUBLE KILLING CASE 'CLOSED'

Coroner Calls It Murder and Suicide: He's Satisfied But Silent About Motive.

(By United Press)

DELAWARE—The case of Gaylen J. Burke, 18, Ohio State university student, and W. G. Troeger, 45, of Columbus, found slain in a Delaware hotel room, was "closed" by county Coroner Wray Davies today with a verdict of murder and suicide.

Davies said that an investigation showed that the youth was shot by his older companion while asleep and then Troeger shot himself to death with a .32 calibre revolver. Davies would not discuss the motive for the crime.

"I am satisfied in my mind as to the underlying cause, but I don't choose to make any announcement for publication," he said.

Burke and Troeger had been roommates at a Columbus lodging house since last fall while the student attended classes.

Burke, whose parents live at Wheelersburg, was to have been inducted into armed service Monday. Troeger had applied at his local draft board, representing himself as a relative of Burke, and had asked for a postponement, but none was granted.

The pair registered at the Delaware hotel Sunday. Their bodies were found yesterday.

At a meeting at the home of Mrs. Morris Zehner Monday the Springmill 4-H club was organized and officers were elected.

President is June Hastings. Other officers include: Charles Hammer, vice-president; Anna Mae Didicher, secretary; James Zehner, recreation leader; and Donna Cushing, news reporter. No name has been selected for the club as yet.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled for June 2.

Children of Mansfield's school for the deaf will meet their benefactors next Tuesday when members of the Cooperative club entertain them at a picnic at South park. The deaf school will benefit from a dance revue being sponsored by the club on June 7 and the picnic was arranged as a "get acquainted." The dance revue will be staged by pupils of the Marguerite Speas studio and proceeds are to be used for purchasing equipment for the school. At the picnic, pupils will meet at the park at 3:30 p. m. for games and contests and at 6:30 they will be met by Cooperative club members for a picnic dinner provided by the club.

Busiest organization in Mansfield this week-end will be the Boy Scouts. According to Floyd Dent, scout executive, 75 scouts will sell poppies Saturday to help the disabled war veterans and the families of war victims. While the 75 scouts are patroling the down town area selling poppies, more than 300 will pourney to Mansfield cemetery to place flags and flowers on the graves of 1,100 war veterans.

The 28 tons of tin cans collected in Mansfield's recent salvage drive sold for $289, but when the city finished paying expenses involved in the campaign, it had only $47 profit. That was the report turned over to Mayor W. J. Locke today. Expenses included labor, gasoline for city trucks, and loading and freight charges. Another collection of processed cans will be made in the city within the next few weeks, but it probably will be limited to one day, the mayor said.

FOUND DEAD IN HAY LOFT

Aged Man, Who Helped Farmers For 40 Years, Taken By Death in 'Home' He Liked.

John P. Salisbury, age 71, lay down for his last sleep in a hay mow, tired after covering hundreds of miles of Richland county on foot.

The aged man, known throughout the nearby communities as well as in the Mansfield business district, was found dead in a barn of the Maxwalton Farm, Route 39, Tuesday afternoon. His body was found by John Dickey, farmer.

According to farmers whom he had helped with the chores, as well as city folks who have known him well in the past 40 years he had resided in these parts, he had always preferred "sleeping out" to a bed in a friendly farm home. Much of his time was spent roaming over the county, sometimes covering as many as 50 miles in one day.

Acting Coroner Blake Kohler said the aged man had been dead since last Thursday. The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home, pending funeral arrangements, after relatives have been located.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

IT WILL be interesting to see whether the newest romantic singer to invade Gotham's night clubs—tall, blond and handsome Dick Haymes, now warbling at La Martinique—turns out to be the most formidable, or whether Frank Sinatra is currently impossible to top. Dick is not precisely an unknown, having sung with Harry James and Tommy Dorsey and turned up in a couple of galloping celluloids, but this is his first excursion as a solo singer in the Broadway arena.

Kilgallen

He is an attractive fellow and probably in no time at all the breathless girls who go in for crooners will be pelting him with flowers and sticking pins in waxen images of his wife. In view of that, I am faintly surprised that the press agents who represent him and Sinatra have not arranged to commission some research laboratory to turn out a machine that would test the comparative heart-throb effects of these two exponents of masculine glamour.

You know, something called the Frobischer Decibel Detector or the Rowell Romance Recorder. I see it as an impressively scientific-looking gadget into which the subject—any impressionable young lady—would be strapped. Then Sinatra and Haymes would sing to her in turn and in their most persuasive manners. The one whose vocal magic most powerfully affected the victim's graph would promptly be designated as the town's top romantic singer, and thousands of newspaper readers would have their minds taken off Attu and Sardinia for at least seven minutes.

"Tomorrow the World" is an extremely interesting and entertaining play, but I am a little disturbed about the cast arrangements which call for two young actresses, Nancy Nugent and Joyce Van Patten, to alternate in performing one of the leading roles.

Not to mention what kind of havoc this wreaks backstage, involving the mammas of the small Duses, the practice certainly complicates the life of the playgoer who has to decide which one he prefers to see in the part without any past experience to guide him, such as he would have if the role were bouncing alternately between Tallulah Bankhead and Fannie Brice.

Confusion is bound to result, and as a matter of fact I believe one of the drama critics did write a review warmly praising the wrong child actress for her opening night performance.

Personally, I much prefer the film custom of having one actor play two different parts, usually those of twin brothers who were switched in the cradle as babes.

I think if the exhibitors were canny, they'd revive Clark Gable's "Test Pilot" for summer consumption. It ought to do even better than before, in view of Capt. Gable's gallant showing in the current very real adventure. . . . According to table tennis champ Ruth Hughes Aarons, the soldiers in U. S. camps have caused a renaissance in table tennis. That's because every service club and almost every recreation room is furnished with ping pong equipment, and the indoor sport is now next to softball and volley ball in popularity.

Each and every member of the Mansfield Braves team that finished the last Ohio State league season of 1941 is now in the armed service.

Word last week from Bill Reinka that Bob (Irish) Kuzava had gone into the army was followed by the army induction Saturday of Eddie the Mighty Man Mutryn, heavy hitting outfielder who led the Ohio State league in home runs, and last year paced the Northern league in the same department.

A story in Cleveland papers Saturday said that Mutryn was seeking a two-day deferment so he could play a game in Cleveland Sunday, but box scores of Sunday games showed Eddie didn't play.

His brother Chet, who led Ohio college gridders in scoring for two years at Xavier university in Cincinnati, played Sunday, but not Eddie. So it can be assumed that Eddie the Mighty Man was in another uniform.

And I hope Uncle Sam cuts the Mighty Man's pants to fit him.

I saw Eddie practicing at the Fairground one morning in swimming trunks. And no kiddin', his legs were so big he had to run around 'em.

Former Mansfield Tyger cager Jack Shiplet is due home in a few days from Miami university where he played on the varsity basketball team this past winter, and where he's enlisted in the Marine Reserve corps.

Jack won't be home very long. He goes to Parris Island for a Marine corps examination, and if he passes he returns to Miami for a further education in officer's training.

If he doesn't pass, he stays at Parris Island as a buck private.

Nearly every able-bodied young man now going to college is enlisted in the reserve of the army, navy or marines.

Yet every now and then one of them is insulted on the streets because he isn't in uniform, which is pretty tough to take after enlisting. Since uniforms aren't provided all the enlisted reserves, some identifying badge would seem to be in order.

Fortunately the "slacker" charge isn't heard so often in this war as it was in the last.

Most people realize that men still in civilian clothes are there for good reason, that the armed services will take them, when and if they are wanted.

MUDHENS CLIMB TO SECOND IN STANDINGS

(By Associated Press)

Toledo's Mudhens, who last year waited until the latter stages of the American Association race to climb into a contending position, are reversing the procedure this season.

The 1943 campaign still is less than a month old, but Toledo took over second place from Minneapolis last night by defeating Milwaukee, 5 to 1. The Millers lost to pace setting Indianapolis, 7 to 3. St. Paul beat Louisville 6-3. The Kansas City-Columbus game was postponed.

WANTS HOLIDAY

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rep. William J. Miller, (R., Conn.), has proposed that June 26 birthday of Abner Doubleday, be designated by presidential proclamation as national baseball day in honor of the games founder. Miller's resolution provides that baseball games be placed in all parts of the nation that day, with free admission granted on purchase of war bonds or stamps.

Cards Put In Bid For Loop Lead

End Eastern Invasion With Two Double Wins.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

TODAY'S timely tip is watch out for the St. Louis Cardinals from here on.

The Redbirds have been fluttering along in second or third place in the National league standing most of the spring and they are 2½ games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers at the moment, but every sign indicates they are ready to soar now that they are back in Sportsman's Park for a long stay.

They already may have taken off. They won two double-headers in two days from the New York Giants to close their eastern invasion and in these four games made 52 hits for 26 runs.

The Redbirds don't have to be rated off their series with the Giants alone, however, for they won nine out of 13 games on their eastern swing, split even with the Dodgers in four games, and previously had won eight of 14 against the other western clubs.

Starting with tonight's game with Boston they will be on their home grounds continuously until June 21 and in the interim will meet every other team in the league.

The Dodgers can be counted upon to put up a battle before yielding the lead. They, too, have won four straight and in the first round of intersectional play also captured nine out of 13 games. They have been getting exceptional pitching and timely extra-base hitting.

The American league also is looking forward to fireworks over first place.

It is beginning to be recognized that the New York Yankees no longer can dominate the junior circuit as they have in other years and rival clubs are ceasing to act shy and meek in the presence of the Monarchs.

The Cleveland Indians took three games from the champions last week-end and moved into first place, but the Tribe may have difficulty holding this edge through a two-week eastern invasion while the Yankees are operating in their own stadium.

After playing at Boston for three days the Indians will tackle the Yankees in New York Saturday and Sunday and then move on to Washington, where the ambitious Senators are no easy touch.

The Yankees are dated with Detroit for the next three days.

Bagby Hurls For Indians

Tribe Defends First Place at Boston.

BOSTON—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians engage the Boston Red Sox today in the first defense of their newly-acquired first place position in the American league.

The cellar-dwelling Sox took both games of a double header in Cleveland last Thursday but the Indians rebounded against the New York Yankees, sweeping the three-game series to replace the McCarthymen at the top of the circuit.

Jim Bagby, beaten only once, seeks his sixth mound triumph as the Tribesmen launch their eastern tour. Manager Joe Cronin has nominated his ace, Tex Hughson, for duty.

The clubs are scheduled from a morning game Thursday.

MEET PHILLIES

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds meet the Philadelphia Phillies under the lights tonight at Crosley Field following their return from a disastrous eastern swing.

The loud moaning from the brass hat department of the Cincinnati outfit is not caused by the Reds' failure to hit. The Queen City boys are hitting the "Balata Ball" as well as the best and better than most teams in the National League.

The "big beef" on the part of the Cincinnati masterminds is that their athlettes are not hitting when they should.

During the "lobster belt" tour the Reds dropped eight out of 11 games played with Philadelphia, Boston, the Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Cincinnati boys left 86 of their mates stranded on the runways—which leads to the conclusion that there's nothing wrong with the Reds that a few base hits in the clutch couldn't cure.

Bucky Walters, loser of his last two starts, will do the hurling for the Reds tonight while former Redleg Si Johnson will oppose him.

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Thursday, June 10, was the new date set today for the Fritzie Zivic-Jake La Motta fight, which was postponed again last night due to weather conditions.

The long delay was necessary since the Pirates open a two-week stay on Forbes Field, where the fight originally scheduled for Monday night, was to have been held.

Take Step to Clarify Title

Angott and Armstrong Matched For June 11.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(AP)—The first step was taken yesterday to clarify the strangest muddle in lightweight championship history by matching Sammy Angott and Henry Armstrong for a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, June 11.

To simplify this jig-saw puzzle we will start off by examining the men and the pattern involved. The men may be listed as follows:

(1) Bob Montgomery is the Philadelphia negro who won recognition in New York State as world lightweight champion by defeating young Beau Jack of Georgia at the Garden Friday night. Montgomery is expected to be recognized soon by the Pennsylvania and New Jersey commissions, although N-O-T by the National Boxing association.

(2) Beau Jack has a contract guaranteeing him a return shot at Montgomery's title within 90 days.

(3) Angott of Washington, Pa., was the undisputed champion—recognized by all boxing bodies—until last Nov. 13, when he "retired," apparently giving up the title because of injured hands that refused to respond to treatment. However, in March Angott announced that he was returning to the ring — that his hands had healed—that he was ready to defend his "title." To prove the robustness of his hands, he met and defeated featherweight champion Willie Pep in an over-the-weight match.

(4) Pvt. Johnny Greco of the Canadian army demanding a title shot on the strength of his punch and recent record.

The pattern is: When Angott apparently gave up the undisputed crown in November, New York State staged a tourney from which Beau Jack emerged "champion" by knocking out Tippy Larkin in the final. The National Boxing association refused to recognize Beau Jack as champion, claiming that the tournament had not included all the logical challenger, as originally planned.

When Angott came out of his "retirement" the N. B. A. declined to re-recognize him as champ, withholding recognition until he had tangled with the New York commission's champ—Beau Jack. Meanwhile Armstrong, who formerly held the featherweight, lightweight and welter crowns, crashed into the picture with one of the most amazing comebacks in ring history, winning 19 of 22 bouts and drawing gates totalling more than $350,000. Armstrong still can make the 135-pound limit, he insists.

In the interim, Private Greco of Montreal hammered out a notable string of victories and became a formidable, popular contender.

The plan is to have Armstrong and Angott fight June 11, Montgomery and Greco meet in a non-title tilt later; if Greco beats Montgomery, he will meet the Armstrong-Angott winner, for the right to a title shot; if Montgomery beats Greco, the Armstrong-Angott winner will get a title shot at the Montgomery-Beau Jack winner.

Thus will emerge an undisputed champion, assured recognition by all government boxing bodies.

Liaison Sport Officer Urged

Seeks Cooperation of Government Circles.

By BILL ZIMMERMAN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Sen. James M. Mead (D., N. Y.), today proposed creation of a government sports liaison officer to co-operate with the athletic world in promoting sports both for service men and on the home front.

Mead, who has greatly interested himself in the role of sports during the war, said that baseball "is getting along fine," and predicted that football "will be all right," but added that "with a liaison officer the contribution of sports can be increased tremendously."

The New Yorker urged that baseball schedules be rearranged to make it possible for swing shift war workers to attend games. He suggested that games be held between 5 p. m. and 7 p. m. in addition to afternoon and night contests to accommodate the production soldiers.

Organized sports also can stimulate sale of millions of war bonds, he said, pointing to the Monday night game between the Washington Senators and the Norfolk Naval Training station team which drew more than 29,000 fans who bought over $2,000,000 in war bonds—the second largest sports gate in history.

"This shows what can be done in every city in competitive sports under proper direction," Mead said. "The sports world has an essential task to perform. In that task baseball can do an outstanding job for workers on the home front."

While sports equipment is being furnished to men in the armed services, Mead said that further steps can be taken to bring sports to America's fighters in North Africa, the South Pacific and other far-flung battle areas.

He suggested special short wave broadcasts of sports. The movies he said, can co-operate by making special sports films which can be shown in army camps all over the world.

A liaison officer, he said, would co-operate with the United Service organizations as well as other organizations charged with supplying recreation facilities to men in the armed forces.

President Roosevelt recently disclosed that he was considering appointment of a committee to recommend a sports program for the duration. It has been speculated that Mead would be named as head of the group.

Mead's proposal for a sports officer is similar to that by Rep. Samuel Weiss (D., Pa.), who says that sports must be continued during the war for the morale of the nation.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—These spring days there's nothing quite like goin' fishin'—even if you can only sit and think about it . . . The season is open, everywhere from Possum Kingdom in Texas to the Brule in Wisconsin and from the Silliguamish in Washington to the Miramichi in New Brunswick (not forgetting the Big Muddy out at the edge of town) . . . All you have to do is pack up your tackle, find room on a train and when you arrive the guide will tell you: "You shoulda been here last week. They were really bitin' then" . . . All of which leads up to a letter just received from Sports Editor Wendell Lalime of the Newport (Vt.) Daily Express . . . Subject: Fishing.

NEWPORT IN A STORM

Newport, Vermont, is right up in the fishing country on Lake Memphremagog. That's the lake where they made a record catch last week, hauling in 18 landlocked salmon with a total weight of 100 pounds within 90 minutes . . . "To begin with," Lalime begins, "Sportsmen fish for salmon right in the heart of the community from a railroad bridge adjacent to the local depot . . . They can arrive from Boston or New York on a morning train, catch their fish and take a noon train back to wherever they came from. If they wish to stay longer, the city's only hotel is only 100 yards away. No gasoline needed here."

A TALL ONE

"Fishermen here," adds Wendell, "like to tell the yarn about the time the Boston Montreal train pulled into Newport and during the usual 15-minute stop a spectator in the observation car jumped to the bridge and hurried to the rail, where he managed to borrow someone's rod. Within five minutes he had hooked a salmon, hopped back on the train, had the chef cook it, and was sitting down to a delicious dinner as the train left Newport." . . . That's fast fishing, but from here it sounds like a lot faster cooking.

WOULDN'T YOU KNOW IT?

"The annual run is dropping off now, and fishermen are leaving the bridge to try their luck in the Clyde river." Lalime concludes . . . There it is again—we shoulda been there last week.

Flood Victims Straggle Back to Water-Logged Homes

RIVERS STILL ON RAMPAGE TO SOUTHWARD

15,000 Troops Help Civilians Bolster Levees In Illinois and Missouri Area.

(By United Press)

Thousands of flood victims straggled back to their water-logged homes in the north central states Wednesday but farther south the still turbulant Illinois and Mississippi rivers spilled over a dozen barriers protecting Missouri and southern Illinois towns and farmland.

More than 15,000 troops and thousands of civilians toiled to bolster crumbling levees along the two remaining critical flood zones —a 90-mile stretch of Illinois river basinland from Beardstown to Grafton, Ill., and a 100-mile reach north of Cape Girardeau, Mo., on the Mississippi.

While the high waters poured over new farm and industrial areas hourly, U. S. army engineers encouraged the weary workers with a prediction that the flood crest, already passed on the Illinois, would leave Cape Girardeau late Wednesday.

At St. Louis meanwhile, governors of six midwestern states met to map emergency measures to aid flood-stricken farmers in the inundated Illinois, Wabash, Missouri, Mississippi and Arkansas river valleys. The meeting was called by Food Administrator Chester H. Davis to bring the flooded areas under cultivation at the earliest possible moment.

At Washington, President Roosevelt announced that 38,000 troops, equipped with planes and amphibian jeeps were on duty in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas.

The Red Cross announced officially that 164,248 persons were homeless and 2,756,000 acres were under water in the flood areas. The death toll stood at 20.

Beardstown, Ill., on the Illinois river remained in grave danger although the waters ceased rising after reaching a 29.7 foot peak early Wednesday. The river crest stopped less than an inch below the top of a sandbag barrier hastily thrown together atop the seawall protecting the evacuated city.

At Peoria, 12,000 troops remained on patrol duty before the huge Caterpillar Tractor plant and other industrial units but the danger appeared passed as the river dropped a foot below its 29-foot high level.

On the Mississippi, all levees between Colombia and Gale, Ill., on the Illinois side of the river collapsed Tuesday deluging thousands of acres of Monroe, Randolph and Jackson county farmland. Across the river at St. Louis, the tri-cities seawall remained intact as the waters dropped from 38.94 to 38.48 feet.

In other midwestern states, authorities counted damage to crops, property and livestock in the millions of dollars in the wake of the worst floods in a quarter of a century. In Indiana, state authorities announced that half a million acres of bottomland had been inundated and 3,700 families made homeless in the flooded Wabash and White river basins.

Question Two In Jail Break at Ashland Sunday

ASHLAND — Sheriff L. D. Hammond was continuing today the questioning of two Cleveland men being held at the county jail as possible accomplices in the escape from the Ashland county jail Sunday of Edward Lewarski, 25, of Cleveland.

Lewarski was to have been taken to Ohio state reformatory Monday to begin a one to 20 year sentence for auto theft.

Other alleged accomplices may be taken into custody during the investigation, according to the sheriff's office. The two Clevelanders were traced by a license number of an automobile suspected of having been used to pull a window from the jail to enable Lewarski to escape. Both men had been observed in the vicinity of the jail prior to the break.

Meantime the state-wide search for Lewarski continues. No clues have as yet been uncvered by the sheriff.

YOUTH HELD

BUCYRUS—A 17-year-old Bucyrus youth is being held by authorities on his third charge, this time for stealing accessories off of the coal truck of John A. O'Donnell, police reported.

First arrested for larceny and later for stealing gasoline, he was caught by police who reported finding the stolen accessories in his possession. They have been returned to the owner.

HOLD CLOSING ARGUMENTS IN MURDER TRIAL

Soldier Takes Witness Stand In Own Defense, Tells of Kissing Corpse.

BUCYRUS — Glore Bevard, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Wilma Reed here March 21 returned to the witness stand this morning with indications that he might be testifying most of the session. He will be the last witness except for rebuttals, which, if time-consuming, will throw the case over to Thursday.

The courtroom was filled for the Tuesday afternoon session when Bevard took the witness stand in his own behalf, answering in a low voice the questions of his attorney, O. H. Hilborn and the cross examination of Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon.

Bevard told of his first meeting with Wilma Reed in 1941 and of how he and Mrs. Reed started going together after Bevard's wife had left him; of their first apartment together which later was left for an unfurnished apartment when they purchased four rooms of furniture to establish their own quarters.

He told the jury that he paid the bills and also paid for an operation performed on Mrs. Reed during their two years while they lived as man and wife and also assisted in the support of her two children of her former marriage. Among the gifts he gave her were a diamond and wedding ring which he told the jury she wore.

His story covered the events during a three day pass which he spent in Canton and the trip back to Bucyrus during which she accompanied him and also repeated the events leading up to the night of March 21 contained in the confession read during the early days of the trial.

When relating details of the evening of the death of Mrs. Reed, the defendant wept and was unable to reply until he had regained his composure. He broke down when he told how he caressed the body of Mrs. Reed after he knew she was dead, and told upon questioning that he had "kissed her and placed his arms around her." He testified that he had unscrewed the gas fixture on the heating stove intending to take his life after learning that Mrs. Reed was dead.

GIVES FINAL SOIL LECTURE

The last of a series of lectures, instructing victory garden leaders in the care of soil and planting was given last night in the common pleas courtroom by J. L. Amsbaugh, state horticulturist. The final talk concerned pest control.

Amsbaugh told of the most common type of insects that prey on the vegetables and gave methods of combatting them. He also suggested substitutes for insecticides which are scarce at the present time.

At the close of the session it was announced that later in the season there would be canning and preserving demonstrations.

Senate Panel Says War Funds Cannot Be Doled Out Without Congress O. K.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate appropriations committee voted today to strip President Roosevelt of authority to use war emergency funds to finance operations of federal agencies denied specific appropriations by congress.

The committee wrote this restriction into a $143,639,591 deficiency appropriation bill. It broadened a provision in the house-approved bill which sought to prevent transfer of presidential funds for use of the national resources planning board or the home owners loan corporation.

The committee removed a house provision to bar payment of salaries to Goodwin B. Watson and William E. Dodd, jr., employes of the federal communications commission, and Robert Morss Lovett, secretary of the Virgin Islands government.

City's New Fire Pumper Receives State Approval

Mansfield's new $10,000 fire pumper was approved today by the Ohio Inspection bureau following tests last week, and city officials were immediately faced with the problem of where to put it.

Engine houses 2 and 4 on North Main street and Newman street, need more equipment, Mayor W. J. Locke said, but officials were undecided about which needs it most and whether it will be better to send the new pumper or one of the older ones to a station in the industrial section of the city.

The mayor suggested that it might be best to shift the comparatively new Mack pumper from the Central station to the Newman street station and keep the new engine at the city building, where the Central station gets most of the calls and must cover a wider area.

Meanwhile, Mayor Locke said he would suggest that city council seek priorities soon on another pumper for delivery when it is available. It would be purchased from funds produced by the half-mill fire levy and probably would not be delivered before 1944.

HEADACHES PILE UP ON RATION BOARD; YOU COULD GIVE HELP

If an unusual number of headache tablets have been consumed in Mansfield recently it's because the rationing board staff has collected a new bunch of headaches.

In spite of information to the contrary many Richland county housewives believe that they must hurry down to the board to apply for canning sugar with the result that nearly 400 a day have descended upon the workers requiring the addition of volunteer help.

C. C. Beelman, chairman of the rationing board, said today that orders received from J. E. Beck, district food rationing officer, stated that people are to use first stamps 15 and 16 in War Ration Book No. 1 which are good for five pounds of sugar each for canning. Then if they do not have enough sugar they may make application to the board. The stamps are good through October 31 and application for additional sugar may be made until September.

Beelman also said today that a letter received at the board from Clinton M. Fiske, Cleveland Office of Price Administration district director, indicates that 50 per cent of the applications for War Ration Book No. 3 already received are incomplete and 25 per cent have errors of such a nature that correction can not be made and books cannot be issued. He urged all Richland countains to read the directions on the applications carefully and follow instructions in filling out their application which have now reached homes throughout the county.

Third problem on the rationing front today arises from the fact that certain service trades have not filed their March 1942 ceiling prices with the board.

Beelman said that the following services should file reports immediately if they have not done so:

1. Repair, maintenance and rental of radios.
2. Gas and electric appliances.
3. Repair and maintenance of farm equipment, implements and machinery.
4. Repair, reupholstery and rental of furniture and household equipment.
5. Shoe repair.

WEEK'S RECRUITING DRIVE FOR WAVES, SPARS TO OPEN IN CITY

As part of a nation-wide intensive recruiting campaign for WAVES and SPARS, a temporary recruiting station will be opened at 37 Park avenue west Monday, Lieut. Comdr. Ralph H. Dombey, district navy recruiting commandant, announced today.

In charge of Ensign Velma V. Varner, attached to the Cleveland office of naval officer procurement, the station will open Monday and remain open through Saturday. Ensign Varner and Yeoman Alice Berg will interview applicants during that period. They will also appear before civic groups and clubs to explain the need of the two services.

At the present time the national goal for WAVES and SPARS is 36,000. Ohio's percentage of contribution in the drive is nearly 15 per cent—or an estimated 5,000 enlistees. The quota for Mansfield and Richland county is unlimited, differing from other communities where definite goals have been announced prior to the start of similar drives.

Age limits in the two services, reserve branches of the navy and coast guard, are 20 to 35. Accepted applicants must not have dependants under 18, and must have at least two years of high school. Their physical condition must be good and they must be citizens of the United States.

Pay rates in the WAVES and SPARS range from $50 a month for apprentice seamen to $126 for chief petty officers. This is base pay, which is in addition to dependency allowances and subsistence.

Following the one-week drive here and the closing of the temporary recruiting office at the Park avenue address, WAVE-SPAR applications will be handled at the navy recruiting station in the postoffice.

U. S. DELEGATES AGREE TO GUARD OWN INTERESTS

Say They Will Look Out For Homeland, Deny There Will Be Any Commitments.

(By United Press)

HOT SPRINGS, Va.—Delegates from the United States at the United Nations food conference, offering the first official plan for a world organization to deal with food problems, were on record today with assurances that this country's interests would be fully protected.

The assurances were regarded as a reply to some critics who have expressed fear that schemes detrimental to the United States were being worked out at this first Allied effort to solve post-war problems.

Delegates of the 44 countries represented here were in apparent agreement on an American proposal to continue work on food projects through an interim commission which would operate until plans for a permanent organization could be completed.

The time limit for new proposals expired at midnight and it was believed the American plan would form the basis for the conference's final recommendations on the permanent aspects of the food and agriculture problem.

The Chinese delegation promptly supported the American idea and the British and Russian delegations were understood to be in accord, too.

Undersecretary of Agriculture Paul H. Appleby spoke about the protection of American interests when he announced the presentation of the interim commission resolution.

"We shall try, with reference to each proposal that is made here to see that our judgment is considered, and where our interests are involved in some special way, to see that our interests are protected," he said.

Judge Marvin Jones, president of the conference, also sought to correct any misapprehension about the purposes of the food conference.

"No commitments of any kind will or can be made by this conference. Each government may take whatever action it deems wise in respect to any or all of these recommendations."

Jones and Appleby also branded as incorrect two published reports stating that an international food bank had been proposed and that the American delegation had suggested large movements of population.

The interim commission proposed by the United States would begin functioning not later than July 15 of this year, probably in Washington. It would be composed of one representative from each of the 44 nations represented here.

Weather Delays Opening of Swim Pool at Bucyrus

BUCYRUS — Continued rainy and cold weather today forced the Bucyrus Parks commission to cancel the scheduled opening of Bucyrus' municiual swimming pool Sunday afternoon, Memorial day.

Painting, which was begun late in April, has been postponed each time painters attempted to finish the job because at least two days of sunshine are required between coats and before water can be placed in the pool after the painting is completed.

Present plans call for opening the pool on June 6, but this date, too, may be changed unless weather conditions improve.

Meeting Tuesday, the commission authorized liability insurance and employed Jack Turner to serve as bookkeeper during the park season.

Richland Soldier Killed In Africa, Father Informed

Another Richland county soldier, Claire Trumpower, 24, has been killed in North Africa, his father, Grover Trumpower of near Perrysville had been notified today.

Trumpower, with an infantry unit, had been in the service since June 3, 1941. He went overseas last September. Word of his death was received by his father on the victim's 24th birthday.

Surviving besides his father are his wife, Viola, and a two-year-old daughter in Athens, two sisters, Ruth and Helen, and a brother, Walter, all at home.

Before entering the service, Trumpower was employed at the W. E. Jones Furniture company here.

QUICK OK ON TAX BILL SEEN

Compromise Adopted By Joint Committee Puts 44 Million Payers on Current Basis.

additional $16,000,000,000 in taxes and savings.

Congressional ratification of the conference committee's work would end four months of bitter legislative wrangling in which the Ruml skip-a-full-year-for-everybody plan was endorsed formerly by the senate and rejected three times in the house, once by only four votes.

Doughton estimated the compromise plan would wipe out some $6,000,000,000 of obligations to the treasury—an estimated 64 or 65 per cent of the tax due on 1942 income.

Only the lesser of the 1942 or 1943 income tax obligations would be subject to full or partial abatement. That is to say, if a man's taxable income for 1942 were larger than his income this year, the abatement provisions would apply to 1943. In addition, a special provision was inserted to apply to "windfall" cases where income increased abnormally.

To avoid inequities at levels just above the $50 tax, a special "notch" feature was being worked out today by tax experts. The idea is to keep the man who owed somewhat more than $50 from paying a sizeable tax while the obligation of a man just under that figure would be cancelled.

For military and naval personnel, the bill would exclude $1,500 basic pay over and above the exemptions for other citizens. Accordingly, a member of the armed forces would have a basic exemption of $2,000 if single, $2,700 if married. Also, tax obligations outstanding at the death of a soldier or sailor would be cancelled.

Since the 20 per cent withholding tax is designed to capture only a 3 per cent victory tax and 17 per cent for the income tax fund, it will not fully settle the obligations of salary and wage earners whose income mounts into the higher surtax brackets. Single persons paid more than $2,700 a year and married persons paid $3,500 or more would have to estimate their total tax and pay quarterly on the amount above withholdings.

June 15 Income Tax Still Due, Friends

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Government and congressional tax experts today emphasized that the June 15 income tax installment must be paid regardless of the pay-as-you-go tax bill agreed upon by the senate-house conference.

Tax payments made last March 15 and next month will be treated as payments on the 1943 tax bill. The new tax measure forgives a year's taxes for those whose taxes are under $50 and abates 75 per cent of the 1942 or 1943 tax, whichever is less, for persons whose liability is over $50. The remaining 25 per cent must be paid in the next two years.

The self-employed, such as doctors and lawyers, must make quarterly estimates of their income and pay taxes accordingly. They are required to file their first declaration for 1943 on Sept. 15 and an amended declaration Dec. 15.

DEATH CLAIMS EDSEL FORD, 49

Chief Executive of Far-Flung Auto Empire Succumbs at Detroit Home.

head of the Ford company during World war one.

It was under Edsel's guidance, however, that Ford performed its tremendous conversion to war production, and from its plants flow 4-engined bombing planes, tanks, jeeps, amphibious jeeps, anti-tank units and much other war equipment.

Edsel was regarded as one of the leading executives among the world's industrial leaders, although his father's fame overshadowed him.

Edsel was born in Detroit Nov. 6, 1893, at the time his father was completing his first automobile in a brick barn in Detroit's Bagley avenue.

Educated in the public schools and Detroit university school, Edsel Ford began work in the plant of the Ford company in 1912. After five years of factory work he was elected vice president and in 1919 after the Ford family had bought out all minority stockholders he was made president.

He was married in 1916 to Eleanor Lawthian Clay, daughter of a Detroit merchant.

Edsel Ford did not always see eye to eye with his father on matters of business policy, but there was a deep-rooted bond of affection between them.

Henry Ford once observed: "Edsel has his own mind and his own ideas. He knows some things better than I do, and I know some things better than he does."

It was Edsel who persuaded his father to abandon the old "model T" car for one with a conventional gear shift, during the first World war he had charge of the construction of Eagle boats, the submarine chasers the company undertook to build on a volume basis; he was responsible also for the company's initial venture into aviation in the late twenties, and also developed the Ford company's Mercury model.

Edsel Ford was a devotee of motorboating, automobile racing, golf and photography and an ardent baseball fan.

Ford Empire Valued At $718,000,000

DETROIT —(INS)— The fabulous automobile empire which was headed by the late Edsel Bryant Ford since 1919, was valued at $718,000,000 on December 31, 1941.

This is the figure revealed in the Ford Motor company's statement to the Massachusetts Commission of Corporations as reported by Standard Corporation records.

The firm's balance sheet for the preceding year showed assets of $713,000,000. These are the latest official figures available.

TILLIE'S CREW BAGS A U-BOAT

Bomber Gets Official Credit On Second Sub Attack.

NEW YORK—(UP)—The crew of Tidewater Tillie, a Liberator bomber, was credited today with the certain destruction of a German submarine.

In an earlier encounter with another U-boat, the army listed Tidewater Tillie's victim as "probably sunk" because of inconclusive evidence.

But on the second sub there was no doubt. The army air forces anti-submarine command said photographs showed survivors struggling in the water after their U boat was blown to pieces by Tidewater Tillie's depth charges.

Jap Captive Says U. S. 'May Retake Pearl Harbor!'

CLEVELAND—(UP)— The Japanese, fed by preposterous propaganda, are unaware of what they face when they go into battle with American forces, Lieut. Cecil C. Humphreys of the U. S. Coast Guard said today.

Humphreys, now stationed in Cleveland, was supply officer of a coast guard manned transport which carried U. S. troops to Guadalcanal and kept them supplied.

"One night hundreds of Japs were landed from barges," he said. "They marched up a moonlit beach in perfect marching order. The marines mowed down all but 30 of them, who were taken prisoner. You can't tell me those Japs knew there were any marines on the island. They just weren't told.

"I asked one prisoner, a Japanese lieutenant, whether he thought Japan would win. He told me with complete seriousness that we might get Pearl Harbor back, but that we would never retake Australia and New Zealand."

Sees Italian Raid On New York

BERN—(UP)—The Italian air force may attempt a raid on New York, the Lausanne Gazette said today, commenting on an Italian attack on Asmara, Eritrea, in a 24-hour flight.

"While their homes were burning under Allied air attacks, Italian aviation in a flight lasting 24 hours bombed the distant port of Asmara," the Gazette said.

"There is a possibility, therefore, of the same planes hopping off from some point on the Atlantic coastline and may easily attempt a spectacular air raid on New York as the fastest planes are now capable of crossing the Atlantic in seven hours."

Tokyo Admits Damage To 19 Vessels

(By Associated Press)

Japan today officially acknowledged damage to 19 vessels in the Southwest Pacific since April.

An imperial headquarters announcement broadcast by Tokyo and recorded by the Associated Press said merely that "our damages since April comprise 19 vessels," but the communique gave a strong indication that some, and possibly all, were sunk.

At the same time, imperial headquarters claimed Japanese forces sank 13 Allied vessels in the South Pacific between May 5 and May 21, five of them transports. The claim was unsubstantiated by Allied reports on shipping losses.

The broadcast claimed further that Japanese naval units sank 17 enemy submarines in the period from April 1 to May 20.

Declares Japs 'Not Being Neglected'

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, declares Japan "will become increasingly aware of the attention we are going to pay her."

"We have sent substantial air reinforcements to General MacArthur in Australia. We know he will employ them to advantage. The president has announced that the bulk of our army and navy forces are now in the Pacific. "We will recapture Burma, we will re-open the Burma road, we will rescue and rearm China, we will liberate the Philippines. And, in the end, we will utterly destroy the ruling caste of Japan," he added.

Y. W. C. A. GROUP HOLDS SESSION

Economic opportunities for Negroes was the subject for study at the regular meeting of the [illegible]-racial education committee of the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday eve-

Miss Dorothy Dann reviewed a national Y. W. C. A. public affairs pamphlet on "Negroes and War Production" by Lester B. Granger. This article related that the economic problem is basic and limitation of opportunity begins with limited education and training facilities.

In the discussion period which followed, it was suggested that limited kinds of local employment tend to decrease interest in education.

The committee, headed by Mrs H. W. Peterson, hopes plans to present a speaker who will give local youth a wider view of the opportunities open to Negroes.

NEW BATTLE ON CLOCKS LOOMS

Assembly Faces Argument as It Seeks To End Session This Week.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The "fast" time versus "slow" time question threatened today to precipitate another controversy in the Ohio legislature as its leaders strove to complete their business this week.

Rural members of the house of representatives, informed a bill had been introduced in the senate to place Ohio on the hour-faster eastern war time during the summer, announced they would fight it bitterly.

The "fast" time bill was rushed to the senate rules committee under a suspension of rules and leaders expressed belief it would pass quickly.

In the house, which must pass on the bill, Rep. Willis I. Cory (R.-Seneca), said he had polled rural members and found 60 of 65 opposed to "fast" time.

Meanwhile, two important pieces of legislation were scheduled for a vote in the legislature.

The senate took up the $368,706,129 biennial appropriation bill, which has been passed by the house and must return there for concurrence in amendments.

Before the house was the senate-approved bill imposing an unemployment surtax up to one per cent on the payrolls of manufacturers mushroomed by war production.

The senate also was to consider the house bill providing prison sentences for agents and operators of the "numbers" or "policy" gambling racket.

The house yesterday passed the senate bill empowering the state defense council to direct and supervise local civilian defense activities. It made numerous amendments which must be returned to the senate for concurrence.

DEMANDS MOVE ON MARTINIQUE

Marturet also asked for a declaration of war against the Axis.

demanded eight-cents-an-hour wage boost. The WLB allowed three cents. The board bluntly told the workers yesterday it would not reopen the case unless they went back to their jobs. The CIO United Rubber Workers called an extraordinary meeting of the executive board to consider the situation.

Baltimore transit workers affiliated with an American Federation of Labor union voted to strike at 4 a. m., but at 8 a. m., company spokesmen estimated service was only about 15 per cent below normal.

The strike vote protesting existence of an independent union and discharge of an employe, followed a work interruption yesterday which union spokesmen ascribed to workers attending a union meeting.

The union said today's strike would tie up four fifths of the city's transportation system, but this morning the company said "the situation is just about the same as yesterday."

Baltimore transit workers affiliated with an American Federation of Labor union voted to strike at 4 a. m. (EWT) today, protesting the existence of an independent union and discharge of an employe. They threatened to tie up four-fifths of the city's transportation system.

In a similar situation at Utica, N. Y., striking bus drivers voted to return to work pending mediation of a dispute about discharge of workers.

The soft coal wage dispute seemed headed for settlement. The WLB's decision, granting concessions to the miners that would amount to pay increases more than $1 a day, prompted the United Mine Workers and Operators to arrange for reopening of bargaining sessions.

In Mobile, Ala., 7,000 negro workers were called from their shipyard jobs by union leaders after disorders followed assignment of negro welders to work with whites.

The number of idle Akron rubber workers rose to more than 50,000 as employes of the General Tire & Rubber Co., rejoined the stoppage. General's workers left their jobs Saturday but returned a day later. They have a separate case pending before the WLB.

Officials of Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich reported the stoppage halted all production in their plants yesterday.

In asking the unionists to "honor their no strike pledge to the nation" and end the walkout, the WLB said it would not act on a petition for rehearing of the wage case until all production is resumed.

The board asserted employes' average hourly earnings at Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone ranged from $1.15 to $1.25 per hour and that an eight-cent boost would have "seriously unstabilized wage relationships in the industry."

A federal conciliator and union officials sought to end work stoppages with curtailed operations in three Toledo plants.

Conciliator John Conner scheduled a conference with union and company representatives at the Spicer manufacturing company, where approximately 5,000 employers are idle and union leaders at the Electric Auto-Lite company called a meeting to urge some 2,000 men to return to their jobs.

Lloyd J. Haney, Spicer industrial relations director, asserted the dispute which halted production of motor vehicle parts there involved the discharge of one transmission department worker and the reclassification of machine operators in the axle division.

Thomas Burke, secretary of the CIO United Auto Workers local, said employes were locked out but would return as soon as permitted.

Melvin Schultz, president of the UAW local at Auto-Lite, said workers there would be urged at an afternoon meeting to go back to their jobs. He said the men refused to work because of "delays" by the War Labor Board in acting on proposed wage increases and by the company to bargain "in good faith" on a portion of a pending contract.

C. W. Pound, Auto-Lite vice president, declared "the management inquired of shop committeemen and workers when they started leaving their jobs . . . what this meant and they replied they didn't understand it."

2600 Return To Jobs At 2 Detroit Plants

DETROIT—(INS)—Two Detroit strikes ended today when a total of 2600 employes of the American Metal Products and the Timken-Detroit Axle company returned to their jobs after one day walkouts.

UAW-CIO officials at both companies charged the delay of the war labor board in settling contract disputes caused the strikes.

The 1,100 strikers at the Metal Products company voted to return after Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO regional director, promised them the company and union would join in attempting to solve union grievances.

In the Timken case, R. G. Goldie, vice-president of the company, said contract negotiations had been pending before the WLB since November. Production returned to normal in the Timken company on the midnight shift.

'Good Response' Follows Mowing Plea at Cemetery

high school boys to replace workers who have taken war jobs, but some of the youths were unable to handle the power equipment at the cemetery and others failed to show up for work the second day. There is only one high school boy on his force now, he said.

A number of the lot owners have agreed to mow their cemetery properties if they could borrow the association's equipment, Denman said. He added that that would be impossible because there was not enough mowers to go around and persons not familiar with the operation of the mowers might damage them.

The superintendent said workers were paid from 60 to 70 cents an hour at the cemetery, better than the common labor wage paid by the city and county and on some government projects when other factors are considered.

He added that the employment of Mansfield reformatory inmates as suggested by a few lot owners, was out of the question because the men would have to be guarded and the cemetery association would be responsible for any who might escape while on the job.

but others complained because

Denman said he learned from Arthur L. Glattke, reformatory superintendent, that there are no inmates available now and if there were any available for work, they would be placed on farms since the production of food is considered more essential than the maintenance of cemeteries.

Persons with relatives buried in the cemetery were urged again today to bring their own mowers and clippers to beautify their burial lots in time for the Memorial services Sunday.

U. S. SOLDIERS ARE BEST FED IN THE WORLD

It's No Longer Beans, Beans, Three Times Every Day In Week.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—It's no longer beans for breakfast, beans for lunch and beans for supper for the American doughboy!

Today's army gets the best balanced meals skilled nutritionists and meal planners can devise—meals that would make a civilian's mouth water, the Office of War Information declared.

Although it is possible for the army to provide meals to suit any food habits—from spaghetti and meatballs for dinner in New Guinea to buckwheat cakes for breakfast in North Africa—the nation's fighting men 'get the food they like in meals that will give them maximum nourishment."

Army meals must provide all the nutrition necessary to insure a maximum of muscular energy and to protect the man in the foxhole from flagging nervous energy.

The average civilian needs only 3,000 calories a day, but the army provides each soldier with 3,750 and at the same time a balance which civilian meal planners could well copy. And military meals must contain almost twice as many vitamins as civilian meals.

The job of maintaining proper nutrition in the army calls for planning on a scope undreamed of by the average housewife. Menus are made up months in advance and the food situation in all parts of the world must be considered.

A master menu is devised by the menu planning section of the subsistence branch in the storage and distribution division of the office of the Quartermaster General

To assure soldiers of the same nutrition where there are no normal cooking facilities, packaged field rations have been developed and each for specific purposes.

For example, the "5-in-1" ration is for groups absent from their base camp but not yet in active combat and consists of a variety of items, such as ham and eggs, grapefruit and baked beans.

The jungle ration, also known as Ration J, consists of canned evaporated and dehydrated foods to supply one soldier for four days. The foods are placed in waterproof bags that are issued to the men.

A well fed army is a good fighting army and American soldiers are the best fed soldiers in the world.

TAKES OVER

NEW ORLEANS — (INS) — New Orleans recently met Miss Lena LaBorde, 27, first woman to become a full ranking street car conductor.

According to the trolley company passenger reaction to the young woman was very good. They reported that the former sales girl took fares, opened and closed doors and pulled signal cords like a veteran.

'GARDEN-IA'

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—If your back aches and your joints are sore from too much work in plowing up the top soil, you've got what doctors at the Osteopathic hospital in Philadelphia call "Victory Garden-ia."

It's a common malady today, they point out, and everybody unused to hard work growing food in his backyard, is getting it.

Back around March 15, when income troubles creased their patients brows, the doctors discovered "Income Taxemia."

Non is the name of an Oklahoma town.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1943.

A compromise tax bill is explained as one that satisfies nobody.

Strikers in war industries are not necessarily "disloyal"—they merely behave in a way that makes them seem so.

One trouble that may be encountered in connection with that proposed "world food bank" is that some people think they can take out more than they put in.

Pickets Prevent Return of Workers

MORE than even the frightful consequences of the strikes themselves, as related to their immediate and potential effects on the war, is involved in yesterday's picket-line action in Akron.

As related in an Associated Press story from Akron "Several hundred pickets formed a shoulder-to-shoulder barricade at three gates to the Goodyear plant and turned back workers employed on the first day shift. Some men were ejected forcibly as others pushed them through the picket line but there was no violence."

No violence? What was it then, if men who wished to work were "forcibly ejected" by the unlawful acts of pickets!

Yesterday's estimate was that 49,000 Akron rubber workers were made idle by the strikes, but, as the Beacon Journal said editorially: "Many of these persons are willing and anxious to resume their duties. . . . They realize that winning the war is more important than winning a raise. . . . They would prefer to work."

Under the laws of the state and country in which they live they have the RIGHT to work—but these laws are flouted by pickets who, by insults, intimidation and force, make it impossible to gain access to war production plants by which they are employed at wages determined by the national War Labor Board.

Behavior of active participants in the strikes in Akron is not representative of democracy, or of what is thought to be Americanism—it has only one fitting designation—ANARCHY—for it is against ALL law.

If it is for such an interpretation of "freedom" that the United States is fighting, the question of justification for their sacrifices may well be raised by every man in military service—and by their parents and other members of families from which they were called.

The Beacon Journal heads its editorial: "Akron's Day of Shame." It is "a day of shame" for all America that such a situation has been permitted to develop.

Buy and Wear a Poppy, Please

STARTING tomorrow, and extending through Saturday, poppies will be the favored flower in Mansfield—and all over the country. Not the poppies that grow in flower gardens, but the artificial kind that were patiently shaped by the hands of disabled war veterans who have worked through the winter and spring to make the millions of poppies which will be bought and worn this Memorial week-end.

Distribution of Mansfield's 15,000 poppies will be under direction of the American Legion auxiliary, with Thursday and Friday devoted to receiving contributions from employes in the city's industries and Saturday bringing the Poppy day sale on Mansfield streets.

Boy Scouts and daughters of auxiliary members will be on the streets Saturday with their cheerful invitation to "Buy a poppy, please," and the response should be liberal as the proceeds all go to Legion and auxiliary work in behalf of disabled war veterans and to the care of children of dead and disabled fighting men of both wars.

It is pointed out that soldiers of this war are beginning to be discharged from convalescent hospitals and that as yet no machinery has been set up for their rehabilitation, so there will be many more in need of the assistance that Poppy day funds provide.

No price is set for the poppies—it is a contribution rather than a purchase—and it is suggested that the contribution be substantially larger than usual.

When the Sign Says 'No Children'

RECENT experience of Mrs. Colin P. Kelly, jr., widow of the hero who sacrificed his life in the Pacific in the early days of the war against Japan, serves to throw the spotlight on a deplorable situation, not only in Los Angeles, where the incident occurred, but in practically every other large and small city.

Mrs. Kelly went from Seattle to Los Angeles to take a secretarial position in a war plant. She was accompanied by her 3-year-old son, Corky, and because of "No Children" restrictions, she was unable to secure accommodations at an apartment house or other living quarters.

When her dilemma was publicized doors opened to her, as might have been expected—but this was because she was the widow of Colin Kelly, a national hero—not because of any general let-down of barriers against children.

Prejudice against renting or leasing houses to families with children is the outgrowth of landlord experience in damage done by some unrestrained youngsters, and is occasionally justified, but a blanket rule against accepting tenants who have children is a shameful reflection on the ability of America to solve the problem of providing suitable homes for families in which there are well-behaved children.

Japan's War-Mongering Plot

JAPANESE hotheads, as Ambassador Grew has revealed, wanted war with the United States as far back as 1936. To provoke a conflict they plotted to kill Mr. Grew and Charlie Chaplin. American indignation, they figured, would make war certain, and American unpreparedness would bring Uncle Sam to defeat.

At first thought Charlie Chaplin seems a curious choice. He was selected partly because he was available, being in Japan at the time. Also the Japanese reckoned that a movie star in this country came about as near to being a hero as anyone who could be chosen.

Undoubtedly they bore in mind the widespread grief, not many months previously, over the death of Will Rogers. He of course was much more than a mere Hollywood hero.

The plot fell through, and the United States had five more years to prepare for war—but events have shown that even an additional half-decade wasn't long enough.

Now that both the Rommel and the Ruml plans have been defeated, let's avoid confusing similarities in names.

CONGRESS

Lobbyists--Some Bad, Some Okay

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Mr. Monroe now eats his fried chicken in the big red house on R street without any big-shot dinner companions. Otherwise lobbying, the capital's "second largest industry" flourishes as usual.

Congress periodically turns the investigation spotlight on certain forms of lobbying but you needn't expect it to conduct an all-out war on a practice which has long been, generally speaking, an honorable handmaiden of politics. For lobbying, in the broad sense of the term, rates next to government as an important and well-established business here.

The great bulk of it is carried on "above board" by hundreds of organizations ranging from the Anti-Saloon League and the Anti-Steel Trap League to the National Association of Manufacturers and the Night Watchmen's association.

THE big labor federations, the farm organizations, scores of trade associations, various religious, social welfare and war veterans groups have well-staffed offices and seasoned legislative representatives, to present their respective viewpoints to the country's lawmakers.

These representatives openly and frankly testify at hearings on pending legislation. They use radio, telegraph and mail to enlist congressional and public support. Usually there is little "undercover" about their contacts with congressmen and administrative officials. Even the so-called "pressure" groups frequently base their arguments for or against a particular piece of legislation upon alleged benefit or detriment to national welfare.

Congressmen who privately admit pressure lobbying has become a menace to good government say they see no way of eliminating it. They can't imagine congress voting to put rigid restrictions, for example on "help the farmer" legislative activities of the Farm Bureau Federation or the National Grange.

Furthermore, there is considerable lobbying within the government itself. Senators and representatives have been known to "lobby" in the administrative departments for jobs for friends and for the location of government projects in their home districts.

ANOTHER type of lobbyist here is the individual practitioner, usually a lawyer-politician, who serves a variety of clients. He familiarizes himself with the needs of various industries and government contract and legislative possibilities for these industries.

Some of these "lone-wolf" lobbyists are lavish entertainers with heavy expense accounts. Congress occasionally puts the finger on the more spectacular operators. Back in 1935, a senate committee disclosed that a lobbyist for a steamship company, which had received ocean mail contracts from the government, ran up an expense account of around $224,000 a year for two years.

It was figured he spent an average of about $1,000 a day for the days he was in Washington. He maintained a year-round suite at a deluxe hotel, frequently had government officials to dinner and was a heavy loser in after-dinner poker parties.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL, mon has another invitation from the government to pile the kids in the corner and go operate a drill press and this invitation has R. S. V. P. in the corner in big type.

* * *

The OWI reports that there are 8,500,000 housewives under 45 and with children to care for in the potential pool of factory labor.

Then the OWI says, in a reverse sort of way, "compulsory service may be found unnecessary" if enough women go into the factories.

* * *

Nobody will miss the inference that compulsory service will be found necessary if the women don't go into the factories.

So they're still talking about drafting mom eh? Mom still is "potential labor" eh?

It's still all right for men to tie up the rubber industry or the tank or plane industry or the aluminum industry or the coal industry at will but mom had better be ready to get in there and pitch if we want to avoid "compulsory service."

That's the way it is eh? Fine stuff!

Thought for the day: Wanted—Woman with houseful of kids for important work.

TODAY IN HISTORY

It was on this date that two sections of the United States were organized as territories. These were Tennessee and Montana, the former in 1790, the other in 1864.

Truth About War

The following incident is true. It happened during the noon lay-off at one of our big factories. Chances are, you've heard the same lusty argument around your own bridge-table or breakfast nook. And wished you had time to carry through. Well, here's your chance. Ready for the works? Should Americans know the Truth about War—or be limited to pretty-pretty piffle? What's YOUR answer?

THERE were five of them—handsome, upstanding, young Defense Workers. Couple of them were brides. They were giggling, smoking, brushing up their hair-do's, like any bunch of youngsters at noon. Then the tall blond, reaching for an ashtray, knocked an illustrated supplement into her lap. Stared at it indifferently as the others crowded around.

Nothing particularly new about the pictures. A gang of boys . . . big, grinning kids . . . same kids they'd danced with last Christmas. Somewhere in the jungle or the desert now . . . scraggy palms . . . battered ruins . . . goofy birds with "house maid knees" flopping over the still, hot sky. All smudged—you know the way most newsprint gets. The girls bent for a closer look. Suddenly one of them stiffened—coughed—turned away, smoking hard.

"They've no right printing things like that," she sputtered. "Lookit how that man's bandaged. Bet he's blind. And there's that other fellow's leg . . ." She choked . . . stopped. Her coat slipped from her shoulders. The other girls turned away. They hadn't known how far along she was!

The red-head smashed the silence. "What gets me is how those nurses stand it. Two . . . four . . . seven of them. Poor kids—they sure look as if they'd been through the sausage machine!"

The brunette scowled. "Mom won't let us bring war pictures home," she complained. "Says it's bad for the younger kids. Dad says she's wrong . . . says we've no right to expect fellows to die for us if we won't even look at the filth and pain and beastliness it means to them. But Aunt Ella says life is bad enough without dragging it into the home."

The slender, quiet girl lifted the page, studied it closely. "I don't mean to criticize your Mom, Ethel," she drawled, "but I think she's wrong. Sure, these pictures make me sick, like they do everyone. But what right have we to refuse to see them? Women as well as men ought to know the Truth, no matter how hard it is to take."

"Horror pictures never helped anyone!" the red-head snapped.

"But these aren't horror pictures," the tall girl said. "They're just stuff every real American should know. Like those nurses. Honest, now doesn't it give you a big kick to see them . . . standing up like that . . . taking it on the chin."

"That's how I feel," the quiet youngster murmured. "My aunt says we should have just bare news—no pictures or awful stories. But Dad asked her if she expected our Founding Fathers went around in smoked glasses."

The black head blazed her objections.

The quiet girl powdered her nose. "What a big comfort you'da been for Jimmy Doolittle," she drawled. "I suppose you'd have yelled for roast turkey when that sea gull came along. Or had a Good, Hard Cry because there wasn't a reserved seat on the China Clipper. Yess-s-suh, we gotta have our Glo-ree-us American Womenhood protected no matter what it costs our American men!"

She bit her nail—stared curiously at the trickling blood . . . The words sank slowly. A welt, darkly thin as a lash, circled the red-head's neck. No one spoke. One by one, the girls left the room. Left me wondering.

AND YOU—WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Churchill Helps Lay Foundation For FDR's Fourth Term Campaign

WASHINGTON—Naturally Harry Hopkins and the president both read over the Churchill speech in advance, and one particular portion, according to insiders, bears the stamp of Hopkins.

It was the reference to the dual position of Roosevelt as both the president of the United States and commander-in-chief. Political advisers detect in this the seeds for the 4th term campaign, if there is one. What Churchill said was:

"The wisdom of the founders of the American Constitution led them to associate the office of commander-in-chief with that of the presidency of the United States. In this they were following the precedents which were successful in the case of George Washington.

"It is remarkable that, after more than 150 years, this combination of political and military authority has been found necessary not only in the United States but in the case of Marshal Stalin in Russia and of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in China."

Then Churchill proceeded to emphasize that total war today required coordination by the chief of government and the chief of the army and navy all under one head.

Interesting fact is that this dovetails with the strategy already devised by high-up political advisers of the president, that in any 4th term campaign it should be hammered home that Roosevelt is the commander-in-chief and that the job of commander-in-chief must not be changed in war time.

It is also proposed that the president open no campaign headquarters and make almost no speeches. All this, of course, is dependent upon whether or not he runs for a 4th term—which he will not decide until June, 1944.

Anyway, it looks as if the prime minister had already laid the groundwork for '44.

Claude Wickard's Hogs.

THE air-cooled office of the secretary of agriculture has been vacant. This is corn planting time in Indiana, and Claude Wickard has gone back to Carroll county to take care of the planting.

Most of the time, Wickard manages his 380-acre farm by long distance telephone, and by writing letters to his mother, his daughter Anne, and the two hired men. He dictates one letter, sending his mother the original, with carbon copies to the others.

His father used to manage the place, but he is now seriously ill. Daughter Anne, a student at Purdue university, 18 miles away, drives to the farm every week-end. But at spring planting time, Wickard has to get back to the grass roots himself.

In Indiana they know Claude as a big hog man. He has 600 head of little pigs, and his last batch of hogs marketed at an average of 222 pounds each.

With prices at present levels, Wickard makes more money as a farmer than he does as a cabinet member—salary $15,000.

Paris Fashion Shows.

REPORTS from France by way of England indicate that Paris still considers itself the style center of the world, still stages elegant fashion shows. But for whom? An exclusive group of wealthy Germans and French collaborators who are busy buying fur coats and evening gowns for their ladies with peace-time extravagance.

A fashion magazine has been received from France which tells the whole story—a 125 page issue of the Album de la Mode Figaro. It sets forth, with elaborate illustrations, the great array of new dresses available for the favored children of the New Order.

There are embroidered gowns, lace-trimmed blouses, fur handbags, sable coats with sable hoods attached, and new designs in great assortment by Rouff, and Piguet.

The prices are high, the patrons wealthy. They carry as special ration card known as a carte de haute couture, issued only to Germans, or French collaborationists, entitling the bearer to buy the latest creations, while the rest of France wears the tattered clothes of oppression.

T. A. P., Dubuque, Ia.—The newsreel of Price Administrator Brown and the A. & P. coffee was made by the Office of War Information, not by OPA. But OWI insists that Brown did not appear in the same shots with the A. & P. package, and thus did not "advertise" that product.

One shot shows Brown making a speech, another shows a housewife taking packages from a market basket. One of these is the A. & P. coffee. The latter picture was what roused the wrath of small business firms.

Artillery Barrage Worse Than Bombing; Some Experiences of "Fantastic Nights."

NORTHERN TUNISIA—(By Wireless)—While with the infantry in the north Tunisian campaign I had to live of course just as they did. Our home was on the ground. We sat, ate and slept on the ground.

We were in a different place almost every night, for we were constantly moving forward from hill to hill. Establishing a new bivouack consisted of nothing more than digging new foxholes. We never took off our clothes, not even our shoes. Nobody had more than one blanket, and many had none at all.

For three nights I slept on the ground with nothing under or over me. Finally I got one blanket and my shelter halves sent up.

We had no warm food for days. Each man kept his own rations and ate whenever he pleased. Oddly enough I was never conscious of the lack of warm food. Water was brought to us in cans, but very little washing was done.

SOMETIMES we were up all night on the march and then would sleep in the daytime till the hot sun made sleep impossible. Some of the men slept right in their foxholes, others on the ground alongside. Since rocks were so abundant, most of us buttressed our foxholes with little rock walls around them.

During that week we were shot at by 88s, 47s, machine guns and tanks. Despite or own air superiority we were dive-bombed numerous times, but they were always in such a hurry to get it over and get home usually their aim was bad and the bombs fell harmlessly in open spaces. You could always count on being awakened at dawn by a dive-bombing.

Having now been both shelled and bombed, I believe an artillery barrage is the worst of the two. A prolonged artillery barrage comes very close to being unbearable, and we saw many pitiful cases of "anxiety neurosis."

The nights were sometimes fantastic. The skies would flash all night from the muzzle blasts of big guns. Flares shot from the ground and dropped from planes would hang in the sky. Armored vehicles would rumble across country all night. German planes would thrum through the skies seeking some flash of light on the ground.

At dusk groups of litter-bearers would set out to carry the wounded from forward companies. Just after dawn each morning the stretchers and the walking wounded would come slowly downhill from the night's fighting. Ammunition carriers in long lines toiled up to us, carrying those triple clusters of heavy mortar shells on their shoulders.

A couple of miles behind us the engineers worked day and night without cease, digging and blasting and bulldozing passes through the hills so our wheeled vehicles could follow the advance.

Sometimes we didn't sleep at all for 30 hours or more. At first the activity and excitement and everything kept me awake. I didn't want to go to sleep for fear of missing something. Also, at first the terrific noise of the artillery kept us awake. But on my last two nights in the lines I slept eight hours solid and never heard a thing.

DURING all the time we were under fire I felt fine. The catch-as-catch-can sleep didn't seem to bother me. I never felt physically tired even after the marches. The days were so diverse and so unregimented that a week sped by before I knew it. I never felt that I was excited or tense except during certain fast-moving periods of shelling or bombing, and these were quickly over. When I finally left the line just after daylight one morning I never felt better in my life.

And yet, once I was safely back in camp an intense weariness come over me. I slept almost every minute of two days and nights. I just didn't have the will to get up, except to eat.

My mind was as blank as my body was lifeless. I felt as though every cell in my make-up had been consumed. It was utter exhaustion such as I had never known before.

Apparently it was the letdown from a week of being uncommonly tense without realizing I was tense. It was not until the fourth day that I began to feel really normal again, and even now I'm afraid I think too much about the wounded men.

Moral—German 88-mm. shells are evil companions and their company should be avoided.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

War Mothers

I VISITED, one rainy afternoon, with a mother who has two boys in the service.

"We specialize in chickens and hogs, on our farm," she told me. "And sometimes we write skits and broadcast. Our youngest son, just a boy when he went away, came home on furlough after he had made several convoys across the Atlantic. I could hardly believe my eyes. The soft face of his youth has sterner lines across it. He's aged three years in one. War has already left its sting, not only in his life, but in my heart. The whole thing is making me nervous.

"We're working here to raise food for our two boys, and we hope a hundred others. Even when I'm busy I think about them all the time. Whenever I wash a shirt or overalls or set their old shoes away, I wonder and pray and hope that I'll see them again . . . God only knows."

A WIDOWED mother, who regularly milks a herd of seven cows, said—"My son Carl left last February. They told me I could rent the farm. But I know what happens to rented farms, so I decided to carry on myself. My heart was never in this work like it is this year . . . and I have strength and ambition too. It's for him. I'm determined that if it's God's will that he come back, the farm will be even better than when he left. I dream sometimes he's home, and I show him the twelve new pigs and the three new calves and the cupboards I had built into the kitchen. We stroll about the fields and plan, and he tells me better ways to do the work. Then I wake up happy. I feel sure there are better days ahead."

IN A meat market I noticed a German grandmother, stuffing sausage. She was stooped, gray and wrinkled, but very busy.

"Your mother?" I asked the proprietor of the shop, who is my friend.

He nodded proudly. "She works to help out while my two boys—her grandsons—are gone to fight. She was born in Germany, but she loves America."

* * *

THERE was a dream . . . that men could one day speak the thoughts of their own choosing. There was a hope . . . that men could one day stroll through streets unafraid. There was a prayer . . . that each could speak to his own God in his own church. That dream, that hope, that prayer became AMERICA."

AN APPLE FOR EVE --

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER XVIII

"If I told you," she said, "you might leave me and the children once and for all. Dried peas, the ham bone I lifted from your mother last Sunday, the crusts your daughters left upon their plates, three large onions donated by Mrs. O'Brien, whose cellar is full of them, and a spoonful of celery salt—oh, yes, and a cupful of milk three days old!"

"Loveday," the man said, finishing his soup and pushing back his bowl, "I'll be darned if I see how we can keep this up. If only that place at Indian Hill would sell," Larry muttered.

"I know. But the trouble is that the woods are full of those stately old wrecks," Loveday observed, "and there's nothing much anyone can do with them. "Larry," she added, somewhat timidly, "what if we went there to live?"

"My gosh, we can't even keep this place up! And what would I do? If I can't get a job here, where everybody knows me and my folks, how could I get one in a little jumping-off place like that?"

"You mightn't have to get a job. At least nobody would know what we were doing, and nobody could—could pity us!" Loveday's eyes glowed as the plan rapidly took shape in her mind. "There are fruit trees there, and we could plant vegetables and have chickens and perhaps take over what Battancourt does. He makes it pay, somehow. And we'd have no rent, Larry."

"We'd have taxes. And we'd have that big barn of a place to keep warm." Larry's eyes remained gloomy and his voice was depressed.

"Well, old Wing Foo and Annie Lum make a living there, and Battancourt can evidently pay the taxes and make something besides. And, Larry, there'd be lovely trees for the children to play under, and closets, and all Mother's old china and towels!"

"And everyone saying that I couldn't support my family!" He said it darkly, but she knew his every intonation, and he was weakening. "I'll be darned if I like the idea of having everyone there know that I'm a flop," he said, "and that I'm living off your place and on your money!"

"But not forever, Larry," she pleaded. "Only until you get into what you want to do!"

They moved on a hot March day when every fruit tree and acacia and hawthorn and lilac in Indian Hill was in riotous bloom. Plum and prune and apple blossoms lined the long road north, and the old village, when she entered it with her son heavily asleep in her lap and a drowsy little daughter pressing against her either side, seemed to Loveday to be shouting a welcome.

There had been rains; there were pools and floods and washout all along the way. But Friends Haven stood high above the town; only deep ruts through the garden and the churned black mud of the cowyard still spoke of winter. Everywhere else was spring.

Nobody was about. Wing Foo evidently had not received her letter. Collins, the lawyer, presently came rattling up in his mud-spattered car to open the house with a flourish of keys and give them the news.

Wing Foo had another job. He was cooking for the engineers' mess up at Camp Gurney. Yes, sir, they'd named it for Loveday's great-grandfather who had commanded the first little Presidio here in 'sixty-one. They were getting ready to take care of thirty thousand soldiers. Someday she and Larry'd have to drive up that way—it wasn't but four miles—and take a look around.

"An army camp, Larry! It seems so strange. It seems to bring the war so near!"

"The camp doesn't bring it any nearer. But she's moving up, all right!"

"Strange. Strange." Loveday tightened her hold on little Owen. "I don't like it," she said.

Bettancourt was still here; he'd come in sometime in the evening. And if there was anything the Collinses could do just let 'em know. Mrs. Collins was laid up with arthritis, but she'd be tickled to death if they'd all come down to supper

"Oh, no," Loveday said, her heart singing with the singing day. "There's so much to do! And we brought food."

First to air a bedroom for the children-Grandma's old room with its empty coal grate and unforgotten pictures and lamps and cushions. Blankets to shake free of moth balls, mattresses to turn: tired babies to feed bread and milk and settle down for naps. And then—everything!

Dust everywhere, and water stains, and smells of shut-in air and upholstery, mice and wood rote and drains. Loveday and Larry ate sandwiches of canned corned beef and fresh bread, standing, working while they ate. The big stove was fired; the good smell of coffee drifted about; a bonfire smoked in the yard. The groceries in their bags and boxes were put away in the big familiar pantry. Mrs. Bettancourt came over with eggs and home-baked rolls and a strange grate cheese that Loveday afterward observed looked like something's bladder.

"Oh, Larry, isn't this wonderful? Isn't this fun?" Loveday, her head tied up, her son crowing and shouting in his chair in the sunny backyard, her daughters ecstatically trotting to and fro, came in and out of the opened doors, stopped to exult over a discovery, followed Larry out to the barn to ask questions as to a disposition of beds for the night.

"Wouldn't we have been fools to sell it!" she said again and again. And Larry would answer, with her sober face growing brighter and brighter, "You bet your life we would have been!"

When they had been at Friends Haven about a month and when the place was beginning to look more orderly and habitable than it had been for a long time, quite unexpectedly one day five of the St. Georges came to call. Rodney, Fanny, and Fanny's little girl Isabel were on the front seat, the senior St. Georges in the back.

This was one of the fortunate times. The day was cloudless and warm; Loveday and the twins were out on the terrace in fresh if far from new frocks; the baby was asleep, and Larry was in town. Everything about the old house looked mellowed and dignified today; tree shadows softened the walls; the kitchen was in order; fresh Swiss curtains moved at the open upstairs windows Barns, sheds, the long roof of the laundry and storerooms were set in new green; the small girls were in themselves an enchantment in their faded, brief blue frocks, with their mops of gold hair freshly brushed and glittering in the sun.

"I was just giving these women an afternoon collation!" Loveday said, welcoming her guests. "Larry wanted me to go out and look at the camp with him, but luckily Mrs. Canaletti couldn't come and I had to stay with the children. Oh, Fanny!"

She and Fanny were in each others arms; they laughed at their own emotion as they drew apart Aunt Laura, too, kissed Loveday in the old motherly way, and everyone exclaimed over the twins.

"These aren't yours!" Fanny said. Her own child was as sturdy as a tulip, with dark Dutch braids tightly pinned about a square little head. She stood close to her grandmother, looking doubtfully at the twins. The twins, intoxicated with publicity, put on a series of curtsies and gyrations that made even Loveday laugh.

"Stop showing off!" she said finally. "Take Isabel off and get some more cookies. Two each now, Betsy."

"Betsy! Delicious," said Fanny. "Betsy and Martha."

"Now tell me everything!" Loveday commanded.

"Well, first, darling, apologies for all sundry!" Fanny said with her old joyous laugh. "All this long time I've been thinking of you and meaning to write and meaning to start a regular correspondence, and what with my babies, and Arthur being moved about, and then Mother's illness and Nini's going away—and poor Merle's death, of course—"

"Such a shock!" Laura St. George's sweet, pathetic voice put into the pause. "Just as we all had hopes for something so different—for life instead of death, as poor Chris said. He was crushed, of course, and Nina and I didn't feel that we were particularly successful in cheering him up Dear Chris! He went abroad a few months ago; he's to have an opening in London. It's been such an upset time! And letters are never quite as satisfactory, are they? They don't cover the ground. But now tell us everything about yourself. You did get the little coats—were they too big?"

"They were perfect, and the girls wore them until they were up to their hips, practically. And, Fanny, you've another baby girl at home? What fun! Margaret, is she a Margaret? And Nini's engaged? Is it really engaged, this time, or another experiment? Loveday couldn't pour out the eager questions fast enough; her face glowed. "Martin Lancaster, is that his name? She'll have a beautiful name. But, Rodney"—she turned to him now with a suddenly sobering manner—"What's this about your going away?"

"Call of duty." Rodney grinned, standing straight and saluting.

"Call of duty?" Loveday glanced bewildered from face to face.

"Oh, we're going to have a lot of this, Loveday," Laura St. George said with a mother's anxious look.

"Going away—where?" Loveday asked.

"Into the army," Fanny supplied in an odd voice that had a note of triumph in it. "He's going to an officer's training camp!"

"But—but you're with Uncle Warren in the firm!"

"Was," Rodney amended it smilingly. "I'm after a uniform and a commission now. When you next see me I'm hoping to be Lieutenant St. George. I'm to be sent down to San Diego way."

"Trouble brewing, Loveday," Warren St. George said quietly.

"I know." Loveday looked at Fanny. "Arthur's in it, of course," she said slowly of Fanny's husband. "But I never thought of it as touching us He's flying—he's not gone across?"

"He was in England," Fanny said. "He came back again in January. Now he's gone again."

"But, Fan, where?"

"We don't know where."

Loveday looked about the circle of faces.

"It seemed so far away in Bakersfield," she said. "Just that there was a war I never thought —" She stopped "You, Fan," she added piteously and was still.

"I'm at home for a while with Mother and Isabel and Margaret." Fanny said, stirred by the bewilderment and awakening in Loveday's face, but quietly too.

"Margaret?"

"I just told you. My smaller baby." Loveday could laugh with joy at this; questions flew back and forth in the old happy way. She went over all the news, trying to elicit details that had been omitted. Then it was their turn. By this time Loveday had Owen, sleepy and suspicious and handsome, in her lap, and Laura St. George could tell her honestly that she never had seen three more beautiful children.

"And the move here was a success, dear?"

"Oo-o-h, we feel as if we were living for the first time!"

"The only sensible thing to do," Warren St. George said.

THEATERS

Historical Picture.

The period following the war between the North and South sets the stage for M. G. M.'s historical film, "Tennessee Johnson," which opens today at the Madison. The picture is based on the life of Andrew Johnson, illiterate runaway tailor's apprentice, who becomes president of the United States, following Lincoln's death, and deals with one of the most turbulent political periods in our history. The stars are Van Heflin, Lionel Barrymore and Ruth Hussey. Heflin plays the part of the struggling politician who became president; Miss Hussey is seen as his faithful wife; and Barrymore as his political enemy who tries to have him impeached. Other attraction at the Madison is "The McGuerins from Brooklyn."

Actor, Director.

Otto Preminger is the envy of many a Hollywoodite. In his second screen appearance, the veteran of the New York stage not only has an important featured role, but he directed the picture. In Clare Boothe Luce's comedy, "Margin For Error," now at the Ritz, 20th Century-Fox entrusted the important dual assignment to Preminger without misgivings for Preminger had done it before—on Broadway. He is co-starred with Joan Bennett and Milton Berle in the picture. Dorothy Lamour and Lloyd Nolan team up in the other attraction, "St. Louis Blues."

Comedy Attraction.

Charles Coburn is put on the pan by Joel McCrea and Jean Arthur after his efforts to bring them together only result in a scandalous FBI investigation. This is one of the many comical scenes in Columbia's "The More the Merrier," currently showing at the Ohio. Miss Arthur plays the part of a pretty Washington secretary who decides to rent a room of her tiny apartment as a patriotic gesture. But she didn't realize the complications which would result. Reading the advertisements in a Washington paper, Coburn puts in an appearance. He finally talks Miss Arthur into renting him the room, despite her intentions of renting only to a lady. When Coburn decides to rent part of his room to McCrea, Miss Arthur is really in a jam.

Bush Lima Beans Must Be Well Fed In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association.

IF YOU PLAN to grow bush lima beans in your Victory garden you must be prepared to feed them well, for they require a richer soil than do the bush snap beans. A good plan is to broadcast a commercial fertilizer between the rows of bush lima beans when the plants begin to bloom.

For quick growth, lima beans should be soaked overnight and then planted eye down, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Plant bush limas in rows two feet apart. Place the beans four inches apart and one to two inches deep.

Lima beans germinate in from seven to 10 days. The plants are mature in about 85 to 100 days. It is advisable to make two plantings One pound of seed will plant a row 100 feet long.

When picking the bean pods do not jerk them off the vines for fear of disturbing the plant's roots. The safest picking method is illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. This method calls for holding the vine with one hand, while using the other hand to twist off the pod gently.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Katharine lifted her head with a proud, defiant gesture.

"She never could break me down," she said, "no matter what she did."

Then a sudden flash of fear came into her eyes. "But, Jack!—would it be possible for her to get word to him by some devious means that she was holding me for a hostage? If Jack should learn that I was in danger . . ."

"Katharine! You don't know my father's resourcefulness, nor the construction and safeguards of his hideaway. No person outside can get to Jack without my father's permission.

A Knock At the Door.

As if to emphasize the word there came a knock upon the camouflaged door, and when I went to it, Adams came inside. Through the door I saw my father sitting before the telephone, and knew that he already was putting the machinery in motion for guarding Katharine when she should obey the order of Ruth Hayes to go to the Myers apartment.

"Your father said I was to go with you to Mrs. Noel Verlizen's apartment," Adams told me.

"Yes, thank you," I answered "I am ready to go immediately."

He followed me to the living room, and I nodded to Katharine.

"I'll go directly over to Mary's," I said. "Father wishes you to stay here you know, until Noel comes for you."

"Yes, I know," she said. "I'll be ready."

"Then let us go," I said to Adams, and we went out into the corridor, then rapidly along it to the elevator which took us to Mary's floor.

A Surprise For Steve.

As we neared her door, I saw him looking around alertly, and then with a crisp command, 'Stand still, Mrs. Graham!" he darted through the door to the stairway marked "Exit!" The next instant I heard his low exclamation: "Don't move, you! I thought I'd find you here!"

I knew, of course, that he was confronting Stephen Redfield

I went to the "Exit" door and pushed it ajar. Stephen Redfield was pinioned neatly and effectively by Adams' powerful grip.

"Go directly into Mrs. Vertizen's apartment and let no one come out until I telephone you," Adams said. "As soon as you get in, telephone your father and ask him to have Meershum meet me on the 18th floor immediately. Say nothing more. He'll read between the lines and have Meershum come directly to Redfield's room. I'll telephone you as soon as I've thrown the fear of God into this bird."

Rings Mary's Bell.

"I'll telephone my father immediately," I said, and going directly to Mary's door I rang the bell.

"We thought something had happened to you" Mary said gaily, as she let me in. "Noel's been ready to go ever since you telephoned."

"I'm sorry to be late" I said "but something did happen. I'll tell you about it later, after I have used your telphone, if I may."

"Have you the service charge with you?" Mary asked with a perfectly straight face, and I wrinkled my nose at her, although I felt in anything but a mirthful mood as I went to the telephone.

But when I had put up the receiver again, I turned to find her staring at me with panic-stricken eyes while Noel, who evidently had been courteously waiting for me to finish before leaving, had an air of fierce belligerency about him.

"Eighteenth floor?" he repeated. "Isn't that where that cur, Redfield, is kenneled? What's he been doing now?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ADD THE WORD "EXCEPT"

WHENEVER you offer advice to a student of the game, it is nearly always good counsel to follow an admonition with the word "except" or "unless" Among those may be included emphatically such points as telling a No Trump declarer that the first thing he should do is to take in all of the tricks possible in the side's long suit. That may be the thing to do most of the time, but there are many hands on which other moves should be made first, or will work just as well, such as leading toward certain honors in other suits.

Unable to open his partner's suit, East led the club 6, which was won by the J, and the declarer promptly ran five diamond tricks, discarding two of his own spades on them. He came to his hand with the spade K and led the heart 2, which East ducked, letting the Q win. The spade A was taken, and East had to discard. He cut down to two hearts and two clubs. Either suit now could be led to him from dummy, and he could take only three tricks, having to lead back to a K, so that 4-No Trumps got made.

If the declarer, seeing that his contract was safe, had led toward the heart K-Q immediately after winning the first club trick, had then run his five diamonds, had taken his spade K, and after that led toward the heart honors again, an extra trick still would have been his.

Of course, if East's 3-Clubs had been doubled, West had then bid 3-Spades and that had been doubled, probably going down three tricks—but then, it wasn't.
